

Governor Will Veto Budget Bill On Legal Grounds

Two Lawyers Give Opinion That Constitutionality of State Finance Law Relative to Power of Segregation of Executive Budget Lump Sums Should Be Submitted to Courts.

Albany, April 12 (P).—Governor Roosevelt will take the first step toward sending the executive budget bill into the courts by vetoing the controversial segregation clause of the supplemental budget bill. The governor allowed this to become known this morning, indicating that he might have acted on the $14,000,000 bill.

The veto of the clause written into the governor's supplemental bill by the legislative fiscal committee, giving their chairman the power of acting with the governor in the segregation of lump sums, will affect but a small fraction of the total appropriations. Three state departments—law, labor and public works—are affected by the segregation clause. The debated appropriations for these departments amount to about $3,370,000, the governor's office indicated, but only a portion of this sum actually will be cut out of the bill by the veto.

It was emphasized that the veto would result in no delay to the state business nor to the building program. The governor has not yet decided upon the mechanics of getting the budget controversy before the courts, but it was said he confidently expected to have the matter in a position for judicial decision within the next 30 days.

Lawyers Advised Veto.

Legal opinion was given Governor Roosevelt that there are grounds for carrying his fight with the Legislature over budget procedure to the courts.

Those giving the opinion were William D. Guthrie, noted New York attorney, and Edward G. Griffin, counsel to the governor. The executive was told that the constitutionality of the state finance law relative to the power of segregation of executive budget lump sums is a "grave question" which should be submitted for decision by the courts without delay.

Holding that the constitution does not give the Legislature power to appoint its fiscal committee, chairman to act with the governor in the making or approval of the segregation of lump sums appropriated by the Legislature, the attorneys advised Governor Roosevelt to veto the bill, and by throwing the case into the courts, test the law.

The executive made the opinion public last night without comment. Behind the opinion lies a quarrel which has been intermittent for two months between the executive and the legislative leaders. It had its inception with the introduction in the Legislature of the executive budget. The budget bill went to the fiscal committee over the protest of the minority and the governor. These committees so amended the measure that the governor vetoed $54,000,000 worth of items. In it, this veto was predicated on the matter of segregation.

Then the governor sent to the Legislature other bills to offer the Legislature alternative means of providing the money. Neither of these would have allowed the chairman of the fiscal committee to act with the governor in the segregation of lump sums. The measures were considered in the Senate finance committee, which later reported out a bill to provide for the $54,000,000. This bill, however, contained the segregation power clause which was objectionable to the executive. The measure was passed and left in the governor's hands as the Legislature adjourned.

See Legislative Encroachment. The Guthrie-Griffin opinion saw the legislative provisions in section 133 of the state finance law and in the supplemental budget bill as constituting "an attempt to encroach upon the powers of the executive branch of the state government" and therefore "in violation of the fundamental principle inherent in our state constitution in respect to the separation of government powers."

The opinion said further "that if amended estimates of the governor can be stricken out and the same amounts for identical purposes appropriated by being included in a lump sum to be segregated by a board of which members of the Legislature constitute a majority, or separate items made subject to the control of such a board, the budget-making power of the governor could be greatly curtailed, if not practically eliminated."

SCHEIDER TO OPEN IN BROADWAY THEATRE BLDG.

A jewelry and watchmaker's repair shop will be opened next week in the Broadway theatre building at 591 Broadway by G. A. Schneider, who for approximately 16 years was connected with the Oppenheimer jewelry store on Broadway. The exact date of his shop's opening will be announced later.

U. S. Relations With the Vatican

State Department Informs Inquiries Concerning American Government's Attitude Toward New Vatican State That Question "Has Not Arisen."

Washington, April 12 (P).—Many letters inquiring whether diplomatic relations are to be resumed between the United States and the Vatican are being received by the White House and the state department from all sections of the country.

In response to all of these letters and to those inquiring about the American government's attitude in the event the present concordat between Italy and the Vatican, recognizing the sovereignty of the latter state, is ratified, the state department sends a brief note informing the writers that the question "has not arisen."

The American government has received only the most highly informal information regarding the agreement and concordat between the Vatican and Italy. It is expected in some circles here that this government will be officially informed of the recognition by Italy of the sovereignty of the Vatican after the agreements are ratified.

In that case, it was pointed out, the United States would then be "aware" of the existence of the Vatican state, but this would not necessarily imply diplomatic recognition of its sovereign status by this government.

The United States sent a diplomatic representative to the Vatican more than eighty years ago after a considerable debate in the senate over the appropriation for his salary.

In his message to Congress in 1869, President Grant said he had been officially informed of the annexation of the Papal states by Italy and that the United States had recognized the change in the status of their sovereignty. Since that time the United States has had no representative at the Vatican.

An Apostolic delegate, representing the Pope, has been in residence in Washington for many years, but he has no diplomatic or other standing with the American government.

Texas Kisses Her Acquitters

Distributes Them Lavishly Among Spectators and Middle-Aged Jurors Who Acquitted Her on Second Bail.

New York, April 12 (P).—Helen Morgan, singer of plaintive melodies and the only woman ever to threaten the laurels of Texas Guinan as the most popular night club hostess on Broadway, will, on Monday stand trial on the same charge of which Texas was acquitted.

Miss Morgan, a popular musical comedy actress, is charged with maintaining a nuisance through sale of liquor at the Helen Morgan Club at which she was hostess. She quit the night club business after her arrest last fall.

Texas was acquitted yesterday in 64 minutes by a jury of middle-aged men who took two ballots. None had ever been to a night club. The verdict was greeted with cries of "Whoopee" by the spectators and Texas lavishly distributed kisses among the spectators and jurors.

Her only regret, Texas said, was that by her acquittal she lost $50,000 that had been offered her by a newspaper syndicate to write a series of articles on life in jail.

She then issued an invitation to all present, lawyers, jurors and spectators, to pass the evening at her new night club.

The "coming out" party, as Texas termed it, was attended by a crowd that taxed the capacity of the club. Texas, in a gown of red tulle and satin with stockings and shoes to match made her entrance to the dance floor while the orchestra played "The Prisoner Song" and the audience rose and cheered.

Many telegrams of congratulation were received.

Other Indictments Against Seekamp

Henry R. Seekamp, who was sentenced to a term of five years in Clinton State prison at Dannemora Thursday in county court, was sentenced under the indictment charging him with burglary. There are two other indictments pending against him.

It was Seekamp who was arrested at Ellenville and placed in the village lockup and who made his escape from the lockup only to be re-arrested. Seekamp, it is alleged, came to Ellenville in a car which he had stolen at Baltimore, Md., and while in Ellenville it is alleged that he committed two burglaries. When arrested he was wearing a service revolver which he is alleged to have stolen from the room of a State Trooper who was stationed at Ellenville but who was ill in the Kingston Hospital at the time. In his absence, it is alleged, Seekamp entered the Trooper's room at his boarding place and took the gun. In addition to the indictments charging burglary and carrying a concealed weapon which were lodged against him by the Ulster county grand jury, the Maryland authorities would also like to see Seekamp.

Southern Cross Fliers Located

Had Been Lost Twelve Days in Wild Section of Australia—Sighted by Searching Plane Which Drops Food to Them.

Sydney, N. S. W., April 12 (P).—After being lost twelve days in one of the wildest and most inhospitable regions of the world, Captain Charles Kingsford-Smith and his three companions of the airplane Southern Cross were located today by the plane Canberra, the largest of several machines searching for them.

Brief messages from the Canberra to a radio receiving station at Darwin, Northern Territory, related the sighting of the missing plane, which once flew from California to Australia. The Canberra said the four fliers appeared safe and well. Food was dropped to them, sufficient to satisfy a want which it was afraid had become acute.

A steamer will leave Broome, West Australia, to pick up the crew. The trip by sea is about 250 miles.

Captain Holden, piloting the Canberra, gave the plane's location as on a mud flat about 30 miles south from Port George Mission Station, which is located on the Prince Regent river about 130 miles northeast of Derby.

This location would indicate that when Captain Kingsford-Smith sent the message, just before he made his forced landing nearly two weeks ago, that he was "about 100 miles east of Wyndham," a lap which was to be the first of an attempt to break the flight record between Australia and England.

Assumed No Landing Possible

While the Canberra did not say so, it was assumed no landing was possible in the area in which the Southern Cross was down.

Later messages from the Canberra gave the position of the Southern Cross as exactly as the aviators could calculate it as on the Glenelg river, near Georgetown, about 30 miles south of Port George. This position would place the stranded aviators about 120 miles northeast of Derby, or about 225 miles west of Wyndham. It was very near the coast.

There was in the sighting of the men a reminder of the disappearance of Captain Roald Amundsen on a mission of rescue for his former enemy, General Umberto Nobile. Lieutenant Keith Anderson, bitter rival of Kingsford-Smith, himself has been missing for more than 48 hours after flying into the wilds of northwestern Australia in search of the Southern Cross.

The search for him may present a problem even bly as difficult as has been that for the plane just found. Anderson had a companion with him, Robert Hitchcock. They have not been heard from since they left Newcastle Waters, Northern Territory, about 400 miles from Sydney. They left here Sunday in a Westland Widgeon monoplane.

Look For Lost Searchers.

Melbourne, Victoria, April 12 (P).—Two Royal Air Force planes left here today to search for Lieutenant Keith Anderson and Robert Hitchcock, lost in an attempt to find the Southern Cross fliers.

WOULD NOT TREAT TROTSKY BETTER THAN EX-KAISER.

Berlin, April 12 (P).—Although German cabinet members pledged themselves to secrecy regarding their reasons for refusing a German visa for the passport of Leon Trotsky, an unwillingness to accord the Russian exile a greater favor than they are willing to grant the former Kaiser was believed to be at least one factor in their action.

Some of the strongest opposition to the admission of Trotsky into Germany came from the Monarchists, who protested against his being given better treatment than the former Kaiser, who has consistently been denied readmission into Germany.

ITALIAN CITY SHAKEN FOR THIRD SUCCESSIVE DAY

Bologna, Italy, April 12 (P).—For the third successive morning residents of this city were awakened and brought outdoors by earth tremors. A fairly strong shock was felt at 1:36 a. m. A second shock was felt at 6:20 a. m.

The squares today were filled with crowds of frightened people, many of whom, nervous from the shocks, stayed up all night and kept the lights burning so as not to be caught unawares.

DR. NICHOLAS MURRAY BUTLER TAKEN TO HOSPITAL

New York, April 12 (P).—Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia University, was a patient at Presbyterian Hospital today, suffering from inflammation of the gall bladder, with gall stones.

He was taken to the hospital last night for treatment and observation. Dr. William H. McCastliffe, university physician, said this morning that his condition was satisfactory.

Earns $500,000 In 3 Years, Marion Talley Retires

Youthful Metropolitan Opera Star Going West With Her Family, to Live on Farm—Has Had Phenomenal Career.

New York, April 12 (P).—Marion Talley, youthful Metropolitan Opera star, whose phenomenal career brought her a fortune in three years, has decided to retire to a farm. Estimates are that her voice has made her $500,000.

Since she is only 23 years old and presumably in years to come could earn hundreds of thousands more, she has amazed her concert manager and her friends with the statement: "I have made up my mind to retire from the professional stage. By this I mean all operatic appearances as well. My retirement will be permanent."

"I am going west with my family. The farm might be in California and it might be in Colorado, but I am going to look first in the middle west. I am going to be just like all other farmers."

Her last appearance will be at Cleveland, where she will sing in "Lucia" May 4. Her engagement with the Metropolitan expires with that appearance.

Miss Talley came from Kansas City, Mo., to make a $100,000 debut at the Metropolitan February 17, 1926. A trainload of her fellow townsmen came to augment the thousands who stormed the opera house that night and accorded her thunderous acclaim for her Glilda in "Rigoletto."

Born in Nevada, Mo., Miss Talley gave promise of musical talent at an early age. She sang popular songs at two, began the study of the piano at five and the violin when she was seven.

In 1922 she had her first audition before officials of the Metropolitan. Her lyric soprano was favorably received, and on advice of General Manager Gatti-Casazza, of the Metropolitan she continued her studies in New York and Europe.

Retirement of a singer so early in a stellar career is unprecedented. The New York World said today in regard to Miss Talley: "Numerous rumors became current as to the possible cause of her decision. One report had it that she was to appear in the talkies. Another was that the singer, despite the continued enthusiasm of her public, was herself dissatisfied with the progress she had made in her singing—an explanation that would conform with opinions of the critics who asserted her voice was cold and inflexible and that she was unable to act. Still another report was that the announcement was a publicity stunt designed to obtain for Miss Talley more and fatter contracts."

Liquor at Sea Before Congress

Decision of New Owners of Liner Leviathan to Abandon Dry Policy Almost Certain to Result in Matter Being Brought Before Special Session.

Washington, April 12 (P).—The question of the right of American vessels to serve liquor as a beverage at sea is regarded by officials and observers here as almost certain to be brought vigorously to the attention of the new congress when it meets in special session next week, at least in the form of discussion.

The promptness with which wet and dry organizations and spokesmen for the prohibitionist viewpoint expressed themselves on the decision of the Leviathan's new owners to abandon the dry policy which governed the liner under the Shipping Board made such an outcome practically a foregone conclusion.

Prohibition enforcement authorities, meanwhile, have shown considerable interest in the statement of the public relations department of the United States Lines, which operates the liner, that it would be fair to assume that, while the ship would be dry on her present eastbound voyage and wet only on the return, liquor would be served going both ways hereafter.

The ship, they said, can possess liquor legally within the American three-mile limit only as medicinal stock under a federal permit. Such liquor can be sold, they held, only to fill prescriptions issued by physicians as in the United States, and must be accounted for with such prescriptions. That applies, it was declared, whether the liquor is issued on the outgoing of homecoming voyage or in a foreign port.

No liquor can be brought within the three-mile limit by an American ship, it was emphasized, unless it is provided for by the medicinal permit. Thus, Commissioner Doran of the prohibition bureau, explains, the Leviathan cannot legally possess liquor to serve on such trips.

Chambers Conveys Ten-Acre Tract.

Adelbert H. Chambers and wife have conveyed by deed filed for record with the Ulster county clerk a tract of 10.89 acres in the town of Ulster along the Saugerties-Kingston highway to W. A. Williams Company of Albany. This is part of the Watson Freer farm, formerly the James Kiersted farm. This is the tract upon which the proposed plant of the Finch Road Light Corporation is to be constructed.

Confesses Murder Victim Was Wife

Civil Engineer Admits Killing and Setting Fire to Her After Bigamous Marriage by Which He Hoped to Clear Up His Financial Difficulties.

Elizabeth, N. J., April 12 (P).—Henry Colin Campbell, 60-year-old civil engineer and bigamist, was in jail today as the confessed slayer of one of his wives, whom he shot and set afire.

The arrest and confession, police said, cleared up the mystery of the killing of a middle-aged woman, whose body, with a bullet wound in the head, was found blazing by the roadside near Cranford, N. J., the morning of February 23.

Campbell was arrested as he was about to enter the apartment where he lived with his first and legal wife and three children. He was taken into custody a few hours after the body of the victim had been identified as that of the former Mrs. Benjamin S. Mowry of Greenville, Pa., in his pocket detectives found a loaded pistol.

In his confession Campbell said he became acquainted with Mrs. Mowry through a matrimonial agency in Detroit. He had been in financial difficulties and hoped to clear up his affairs by another marriage.

Met After Brief Correspondence.

He said that after a brief correspondence he met the woman at Washington. Later he met her again at Philadelphia, from where they drove to Elkton, Md., where they were married August 28, last.

The next day, he said, the woman deposited a check for $1,000 to their joint account. He then returned to Westville, N. J., where he was then living, and she returned to Greenville.

In February, the confession said, she came in search of him. He communicated with her at the Y. W. C. A. in New York, where she was staying, and met her February 21 at Philadelphia.

After stopping at Dover, Del., that night, he said they drove northward in his car. They arrived in Cranford about 4 a. m., February 23.

She Wanted Home He Promised. While they were driving along there was an argument because she wanted to go to the home which he had promised to prepare for her.

Then, the confession went on, he shot her while she dozed in the seat beside him. He said he drove a short distance, stopped the car and dragged the body to the roadside. He took a can of gasoline from the car, poured its contents over the clothing and set fire to it.

The body was discovered by the driver of a bakery wagon.

Identification was accomplished through tracing the shoes back to the manufacturer in St. Louis, Mo., to Greenville, Pa., where detectives learned that Mrs. Mowry had lived before she left to marry a "Doctor Campbell."

Similar to Brown Slaying.

Several features of the slaying of Mrs. Mowry are similar to those of the killing of Margaret Brown, New York governess, who was found dying with her clothing afire beyond a refreshment stand near Bernardsville, N. J., a year ago.

Miss Brown had drawn her life savings from a bank and gone away saying she was to marry a "doctor." Her slayer was never apprehended although some bonds identified as having belonged to her were sent to authorities with a note in which the writer said he was the slayer.

Local Dry Agents Raid Two Places

Federal agents from the Kingston office visited two places on Foxhall avenue Thursday evening where they executed search warrants. One arrest was made and in both places alleged whiskey and home brew beer was found.

At 246 Foxhall avenue the agents served warrant on Marx Sacco and on searching the place found what is alleged to be whiskey and beer. Sacco was arrested and placed in the county jail for the night and this morning he furnished bail in the sum of $500 and was released for a hearing on April 25 before U. S. Commissioner Arthur C. Connolly.

A visit was also made at 246 Foxhall avenue but there the agents found the place closed and no one about and they found it necessary to break into the place to carry out the provisions of the search warrant. On entering the place the agents found what appeared to be a candy store with a few boxes of candy in the showcase. A search of the premises which it is alleged was not a model for cleanliness revealed alleged whiskey and home brew beer hidden in various places including the stove, ice box, under the counter and in various other places of concealment. A considerable quantity of stuff was found and seized. No one was about the place at the time the agents arrived and a warrant for the alleged proprietor, Charles Simmons, has been sworn out and an arrest will probably follow.

Suggest Marriage To Vice President

Correspondents Take Interest in His Personal Affairs Following His Fight for Equal Social Recognition for His Sister.

Washington, April 12 (P).—"Why don't you get married?" In the hundreds of letters which poured into the office of Vice President Curtis during his controversy over the social status of his sister and designated hostess, Mrs. Edward Everett Gann, this naive suggestion was found more than once.

The idea always struck the sense of humor of the vice president. But his only response was a chuckle and an occasional reflection that marriage was one of those things that was easier said than done.

Now that it is all over and he has won for his sister equal recognition with himself at official dinners, which was denied by the ruling of former Secretary Kellogg, the usually quiet Curtis is realizing that his first declaration as vice president created a real stir.

Just looking over his increasing stack of mail was enough to convince him that he had said and done something which at least was attracting attention. Intent at righting what he considered a slight to his sister, now he is amazed at the widespread interest. The vast majority of his correspondents supported him.

Friends of the veteran Kansan have insisted all along that he was actuated only by loyalty to family and to office in his public fight for social precedence for his sister. And he confirms that view in private conversation. But he is now wondering if the publicity will ever end.

At the first official dinner which was affected by the situation, Mrs. Gann last night was accorded the same precedence she would have received if she had been the wife of the vice president. That was in accordance with the provisional arrangement worked out by the diplomatic corps when Secretary Stimson put an end this week to the state department's unofficial activity of recent years in deciding such questions.

The dinner was given by Ambassador Davila of Chile.

Noted Orchestra Secured for the Big K. of C. Ball

Al Kavelin and his Grand Street Follies Orchestra, Columbia recording artists, has been secured to render music together with John P. Erne's Imperial Broadcasting Orchestra at the tenth annual charity ball at Kingston Council, No. 275, Knights of Columbus, which will be held in the New York state armory on Friday evening, April 19. There is assurance of a treat from the music standpoint with these two orchestras in action.

There will also be an elaborate entertainment program, which J. David Schoenck, chairman, promises will eclipse former offerings. Preparations are also being carried out by the other committees in charge to make this ball the most successful, socially and financially, ever sponsored by the local order.

Due to the enormous demands during the past year which entirely depleted the charitable fund, the cooperation of the public is earnestly solicited. During the past year the funds, which were secured from the 1928 ball, were entirely distributed to the needy of the city and county. Never before was the demand so great, the Knights report. A large amount will be needed to carry out this work for the ensuing year so the help of all is looked for. The funds realized from the ball are devoted to charity only, which is distributed unostentatiously and without respect to race or creed.

People from not only this city but from the county and nearby cities as well are attracted to the ball each year because of the dual purpose of contributing toward the charitable work of the order and at the same time enjoying an evening of worthwhile entertainment and sociability.

Death Faster Than Ambulance

Watertown, N. Y., April 12 (P).—A forty-mile ambulance ride through the night failed to save the life of Roger Dobson, 18, of Waukena, who died at Philadelphia, N. Y., today from a wound received when a revolver he was putting away was discharged, the bullet lodging in his stomach.

Dobson, with his father and three fishermen, was about to retire for the night when he noticed a revolver on a table. It was discharged when he picked it up with the intention of putting it away.

A call was sent to Watertown and an ambulance was sent to Waukena to carry the wounded youth to a hospital here. Forty of the sixty miles had been covered when Young Dobson succumbed.

Roger was the son of Bert A. Dobson, a Waukena guide.

Business Men Not Interested in Any Particular Route

Recent Action of Kingston Uptown Business Men's Association Misunderstood—Merchants Do Not Advocate Any Specified Route But Want Highway Built.

There is apparently some misunderstanding in the town of Esopus among some of the residents over the attitude of the Kingston Uptown Business Men's Association toward the construction of route 9-W on the west shore of the river from Highland north to Kingston. At a recent meeting of the association, following similar action taken by other associations, the Uptown Association passed a resolution favoring the immediate construction of a good highway from the Lloyd concrete road north to Kingston in order that when the mid-Hudson bridge is completed there will be a good through route on the west side of the river which will be available for use to the residents of the lower sections of the county as well as the tourist travel.

In adopting the resolution Mr. Wonderly, president of the association, stated that the association was not going on record as approving any particular route or any particular changes in route as laid out by the highway department. The matter of the route to be taken whether it followed the old route or made slight deviations was not for the members of the association to say but rested with the residents of the towns and villages along the route to determine where it should best serve the residents along the route. With that understanding the resolution was adopted and in the resolution no mention was made as to where the road should run other than that it should be a route which would connect Southern Ulster and the Rondout Creek Bridge and provide the residents of the towns with a much needed improved highway.

Merchants Want People Served. Some residents of the town of Esopus have voiced an opinion that the merchants are advocating the route proposed by the highway department which avoids the village of Esopus and other hamlets and business places in the town. This morning Mr. Wonderly, president of the association, stated that the association was not approving or advocating the adoption of any route other than one which would serve the people of the towns to the best advantage. No plans have been viewed by the association outlining any route and the action of the association was one simply urging that a suitable and adequate highway be built over such route as the people of the towns affected and the highway department agree upon as the one serving the best purpose.

Seeking to Aid the People

Mr. Wonderly stated that since the road to the south of Kingston was in bad shape and the people needed a new road, the association had interested itself in the matter with the intention of securing for the people a better road without delay and in a place where it caused the least damage and served the interests of the property owners best. He stated that every merchant in Kingston appreciated the business which the prosperous fruit sections to the south of the city gave to Kingston and for this reason it was the intent of the association to be of assistance in securing for them a better road, constructed over a route which the property owners and business people along the route believed would serve them best. In advocating a good road the association had no intention of approving or disapproving any route since the members of the association were not familiar with the exact plans of the department and only sought to have the road placed where it would be of most advantage.

Coffer Dam Collapse Kills 6

Lansing, Mich., April 12 (P).—Six men were believed to have been killed in a coffer dam collapse at the South Logan street viaduct this morning.

Eight men were working about 200 feet under the level of the river on the footings of the viaduct on the south side of the river when without warning there was a crash and the workers were buried under an avalanche of crashing timbers and water.

Two of the eight men were rescued but the other six were believed almost certainly to have perished. Pressure of water on the dam caused the cave-in. The tremendous weight of the swollen river crushed in the sides of the dam with such force that one man was thrown entirely clear of the wreckage into the river. He was one of the two rescued.

PLAIN FELT HATS HURT ARTIFICIAL FLOWER TRADE.

Washington, April 11 (P).—Women's penchant for plain felt hats last year might have eased the load on their husbands' pocket-books but it hurt the artificial flower trade between France and the United States.

Smaller demand for hat trimmings is blamed by the Department of Commerce for a decrease in imports of artificial and ornamental flowers from the Paris consular district from $1,055,122 in 1927 to $671,452 in 1928.

Need Executive
For Girl Scouts

Campaign to Raise Necessary Funds for Executive's Salary Planned for April 22-25—Speakers from National Headquarters Inspire Campaign Workers

On Thursday a group of women interested in Girl Scout work in this region, together with Prof. Bennett, treasurer of the local organization, were the luncheon guests of Marion Borden, Girl Scout commissioner of Ulster county, at the Governor Clinton Hotel. The special object of the gathering which was served in one of the private dining rooms, was to create additional interest in Girl Scouts, through hearing Mrs. Richard E. Forrest and Miss Theresa Carter of New York from the National Headquarters, give inspirational talks.

This fact should not be taken to mean that there is slackened enthusiasm over an enterprise that is doing so very much for the girls of Ulster county, but rather that there is a keen desire on the part of Commissioner Borden to interest added communities that far more of the girls in the county may become scouts, which may mean a vast deal in the life of any girl.

Now Scouting is quite dissimilar from club work with girls. There are definite things that a Girl Scout must learn and she must be taught those things so proficiently that she can compete favorably with other Girl Scouts and gain desired promotion. One of the speakers made emphatic denial that the work of scouting is to make tomboys of girls. For home-making is one of the most important pieces of work taught and emphasized. Obviously, in order to learn the particular features of Scouting there must be trained leaders to carry on. How are we, too far away from New York city to attend classes there, to secure from our own older girls, local leaders? There is only one way in which it can be done. That is have an officially trained executive whose special duty among other duties it shall be to train leaders. For some time the Ulster county girls have been without such a scout executive, yet so well have the troops been organized that there are today in the county some thirty-eight active, efficient troops.

Drive Planned for April 22-25.

So the real, big objective was to learn in every possible way how best to put over a money-raising campaign or drive in the county, to secure the necessary funds with which to pay the salary of the much-needed Girl Scout executive. Already Commissioner Borden had many wise plans formulated for the carrying on of this drive about April 22-25, but it was thought that headquarters speakers might further inspire the earnest and interested workers present, covers for luncheon being laid for about twenty persons.

So while the others enjoyed their luncheon, Mrs. Forrest told interestingly of the complete organization of Girl Scouts, from national headquarters right down to the troops such as are in Ulster county, showing how the larger groups can be called on—as in the present instance—to aid and encourage the smaller groups. Miss Carter supplemented admirably what Mrs. Forrest had said in giving many specific suggestions as to how best to carry on the coming drive successfully, and the meeting resolved itself into an enthusiastic round table, with many questions, the outcome of particular problems, asked and well answered.

A little later in the campaign Commissioner Borden will give a better knowledge of just what it means, and how much it means to be a Girl Scout, and then will introduce Ulster County Girl Scouts by name, so that those persons who will be asked to give the needed support, will have every opportunity to know what it is all about, for it is one of the most worth-while movements of the present time in this country.

A vote of thanks was given the speakers for coming to Kingston to aid by their presence and information given, the Scout workers in Ulster county who hope eventually to be able to double and treble the number of Girl Scouts in the county.

W. T. GRANT COMPANY SALES FOR MARCH SET NEW RECORD

Sales for the W. T. Grant Company stores for the month of April showed an increase of 33 per cent over the sales of the same month a year ago. The popularity of the Grant Stores is indicated by the fact that those stores actually open a year ago showed a gain of 15.45 per cent in March of this year. The balance of the increase—21.52 per cent—is accounted for by sales in new stores.

Nervous Condition Was Source of Worry For Prospect Street Lady

Stomach Ills and Constipation Cause Of Ill Health—Nothing Helped Her Until She Used Nu-Erb.

"For the past two years, my stomach and nerves have been in such a delicate condition that it has been a source of much worry to me," said Mrs. Harvey Hornbeck, 151 Prospect street, Kingston, N. Y., recently while talking with the Nu-Erb man at McBride Drug Store, 312 Wall Street.

"No matter how careful I was of my diet, I'd get severe attacks of indigestion after every meal. My liver was sluggish causing dizzy spells and dark floating spots to appear before my eyes. I felt irritable, tired and restless all the time and my entire system became very badly rundown. I was also a chronic victim to constipation.

"All that has changed since I have been using the Nu-Erb. It has relieved the indigestion and put an end to those dizzy spells and spots before my eyes. It has also strengthened my nerves so that I sleep soundly all night long and have regained all my lost strength and energy. It has regulated my bowels so that I am no longer troubled with constipation and it has also put an end to the neuritis from which I have been suffering for some time past. I will gladly recommend this medicine to anybody."

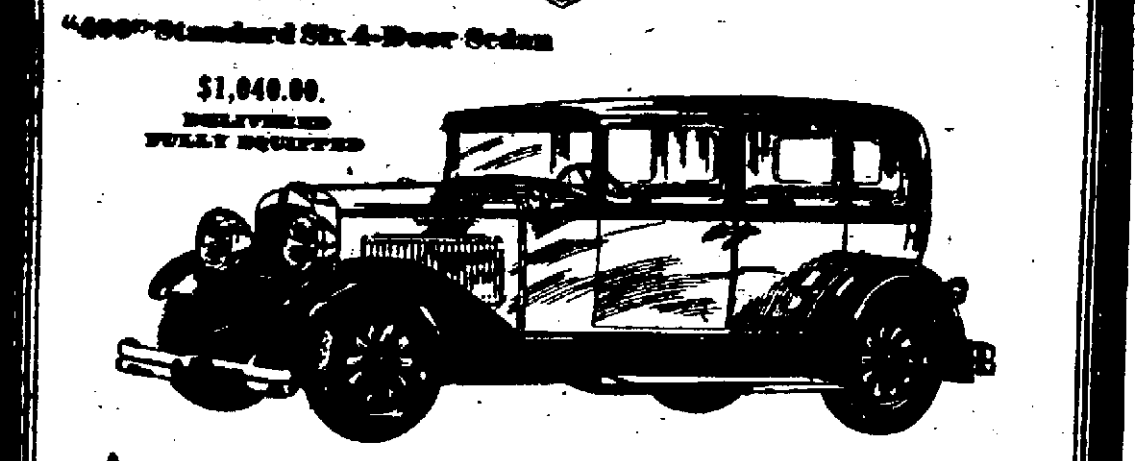

"If you feel tired and achy all the time it is because your blood is below normal. If the trouble is from improper functioning of the stomach, kidneys, liver or bowels, the health building medicine, Dr. French's Nu-Erb, will quickly relieve the suffering and restore health and strength.

McBride Drug Store, 312 Wall St., is headquarters in Kingston for Dr. French's Nu-Erb. Go see the Nu-Erb man now making his headquarters there and let him explain to you the merits of this remarkable medicine.

THE RECORD BREAKING NEW NASH "400"Ask the Salesman this Question:

EVERY prospective motor car purchaser should ask every salesman he talks to, this question: "What is the price of this car, delivered to me, fully equipped with all the equipment?"

You should also ask what the difference is between the factory (f. o. b.) price and the delivered price—and then ask what that difference buys.

Heretofore it has been customary for factory prices to cover only the bare car. This permits the dealer to sell you your bumpers and the other accessories, at retail prices.

Nash, in introducing the new "400", 10 Sedans from $270 to $2120, delivered. 8 Coupes, Cabriolets, Victorias from $270 to $2061, delivered.

Good Vaudeville At Hi-Y Show

GAS BUGGIES—The Party Is Scheduled.

The committee whose job it is to raise money to redecorate the rooms of the "Y" which are used by the club for their meeting purposes, has secured the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer success "West Point" featuring William Haines and Joan Crawford, and as an extra addition has secured several acts of excellent vaudeville which will be presented between the shows, once each evening.

As one of the numbers, the committee has secured a sextet from the High School Choral Club which will render several numbers. The sextet consists of Marie Pfommer, Dolores Rist, Ruth Byrne, Isabel Brigham, Vivian Klotz and Eva Clinton.

Fern S. Rivers, Boys' Work Secretary of the local Y. M. C. A., will present a program of magic, mystery and hypnotism. Mr. Rivers has retired entirely from the entertainment field and was persuaded to appear for the boys' show only because he is deeply interested in any phase of boys' work and desires to cooperate fully with the Hi-Y Club.

Troop 1, Boy Scouts of America, will put on a demonstration of various things learned in the Scout work. Troop 1 has won several medals, both from local troops and from those of Ulster County. The exhibition will consist of rope spinning, fire by friction, fire by flint and steel, signaling and first aid.

The Hi-Y Club is most fortunate in having several members of their club in one of the local jazz bands whose professional names is "The Moonlight Revelers." This orchestra will play several of the more modern pieces and is sure to cause some favorable comment on the part of the music lovers of Kingston.

The Hi-Y Club will present their show in the Y. M. C. A. Auditorium

Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday evenings, April 16, 17, and 18.

Tickets may be secured from any member of the club, the Hi-Y Auxiliary, the main office of the "Y" or at the box office on any of the three nights.

The proceeds will be used to renovate the recreational rooms of the "Y."

Pay for one solvent and get two!

TO SHORTEN YOUR CLEANING HOURS

NO longer need you use the electric rug-cleaner to do the lighter tasks! Here is an easier, faster way to clean ... without the use of a single attachment!

This new plan actually gives you two electric cleaners—both for the price of one: A big cleaner for the rugs and carpets—and a handy cleaner, the Spic-Span, for the small jobs.

A speedier way without attachments

The Spic-Span is the result of years of research. It retains all the superiorities of the big Premier ... super-suction, ball-bearings—no oiling! Weighing only four pounds, the Spic-Span can be taken from task to task without waste of time or steps.

It cleans faster and better because it gets its nose close to the dust and dirt. You can plug it into any electric socket and clean mattresses, clothes, stairways, upholstery, automobiles, nooks and crannies everywhere.

Free Demonstration

Why use a big cleaner for little cleaning jobs? With the Premier two cleaner idea, you can cut your housecleaning hours in half. For, as soon as you're finished with the big cleaner, you drop it and pick up the Spic-Span. No lost motion—no unnecessary strain.

The Spic-Span may be purchased separately for $14.50 ... or in one of the following combinations. Phone or visit us today and arrange for a private demonstration. No obligation.

Big Exposition

Shanghai, April 12 (AP).—China has opened her doors. The country that half a century ago was fighting the intrusion of foreign traders now is planning to invite the manufacturers of the world to participate in an international industrial exposition. The affair will be held in 1931 in Peking, on the 29th anniversary of the founding of the Chinese Republic, and will commemorate that event. Some of the buildings of the Forbidden City may serve as the exposition grounds.

Besides stimulating the improvement of Chinese manufacturers it is expected that the exposition will promote China-foreign commercial relations. A third object will be to plan a solution for problems involving capital and labor, which, in the opinion of Dr. H. H. Kung, Minister of Industry, Commerce and Labor, who is responsible for the scheme, cannot be solved without world cooperation.

Student Farms BringProfit to Indian Boys

Chillico, Ohio.—Individual student farms, once considered a foolish experiment, have solved the problem of training youthful Indian farmers.

Twenty-five Indian boys now cultivate separate tracts, ranging from thirty-three to seventy-five acres a piece, at the Chillico Indian Agricultural school. Four thousand acres are under student cultivation.

Lawrence E. Correll, superintendent, aroused interest by telling the Indians the ground held "buried treasure." Each boy assigned a tract of ground averages $200 profit annually—one quarter of what he produces.

Younger boys are allowed to cultivate smaller tracts. The school either buys the grain for its own use or sells it at the market.

The Chillico school's venture has been adopted as a model by Indian schools throughout the country.

6-Year-Old Royal HeirDrives Tiny Motor Car

Ragrade, Yugo-Slavia.—Crown Prince Peter of Yugo-Slavia, who has received a miniature automobile as a present for his sixth birthday, is learning to drive his car, under the close supervision of his royal mother, Queen Marie.

Prince Peter sits behind the wheel of the car and rides full speed through the palace grounds. King Alexander looking on, sometimes with anxiety, as the boy and his mother whirl around sharp corners.

Every morning the crown prince, in a uniform of a private in the Yugo-Slav army, goes through regular army drill, learns how to carry a miniature gun, how to salute and march.

He has just been promoted corporal, which indicates that Peter is a good soldier.

Historic Oak at Rome

Rome.—The famous oak on the Janiculum hill overlooking Rome, under which the great poet Tasso dreamed and mused, and St. Philip Neri played with the children of the neighborhood, is about to be enclosed and protected by the park service of the municipality.

Stricken by lightning a short time ago, little remains of the tree so intimately associated with Italian literary and religious tradition.

Robinson Sent To Reformatory

Herbert Robinson and Fred Meuser, charged with burglary in the town of Lloyd, were brought into county court Thursday afternoon at which time Robinson was sentenced to the Elmira Reformatory. In the case of Meuser, sentence was postponed until the June term of court and he was remanded to the county jail until that time. William F.
Leahy appeared for Robinson and Vernon Kelder represented Meuser.
Robinson is but 16 years old while Meuser is 20.

The selecting of a jury in the Beatty-Smith grand larceny case was continued throughout the afternoon session of court and when the panel of jurors had been exhausted there were nine men in the box. Judge Fowler directed Sheriff Rice to secure 10 taxmen and have them in court as soon as possible. Beatty and Smith are charged with grand larceny, first degree, in connection with the holding up of Addison Stratton at Atwood last January.

After the jury had been selected court adjourned to Monday at 10 a.
m. Jurors not in the box were excused until next Wednesday at 10 o'clock.

MAY REACH MOON, THINKS CURTISS

Aviator Sees Planes Making Trips Some Day.

Miami, Fla.—Glenn Curtiss, famous aviator, father of commercial aviation and builder of the airplane products which bear his name, said that man will some day reach both the moon and the planet Venus. During an interview, he was asked: "What are the probabilities of interplanetary communication? Do you believe man will ever reach the moon and possibly the planet Venus?"

"I think the time will come when man will fly from this earth to the moon," Mr. Curtiss replied. "It is not impossible. Anything man thinks of can eventually be made to come true."

"The weird stories we read recently concerning plans to fly to the moon are no harder to imagine than Jules Verne's exploits were when he wrote them more than three decades ago.
And a good percentage of his predictions have come true. Around 40,000 feet is about as high as man has gone."

"The vehicle to carry a man to the moon will have to be extremely strong.
It must carry enough oxygen and food to last him the entire journey. The biggest part of the feat will be navigation and it will take another Lindbergh to stay on the course to reach the objective."

Mr. Curtiss has made Miami his permanent home, having established a factory, two airplane bases and a flying school here.

All Living Plants Have Nerves, Says Scientist

London.—A theory that trees resemble human beings insofar as they are attracted and repulsed by the presence of human beings is put forward by Herbert G. Longford.

"It has been reserved to scientists of the present generation," he says,
"to conceive and produce instruments of marvelous delicacy, proving by the production of visible record that all living plants have nerves which respond to electric shock, to heat and to cold—as do ours—and a throbbing pulse which varies naturally—as does our own—during times of wakefulness and sleep."

"Still further it can be proved by demonstration that their reactions to chloroform and other anesthetics are identical with the phenomena exhibited by the animal world."

"Grown trees, under the influence of drugs, has been transplanted with mutilated roots without shock, whereas untreated, similarly selected trees have died."

Liechtenstein

A Young Liechtensteiner.

(Prepared by the National Geographic Society, Washington, D. C.)

WHEN Prince Johann II of the little principality of Liechtenstein died a few weeks ago in his eighty-ninth year, there came to an end the longest reign
in the West since the days of Louis XIV of France, seventy-one years. But more than the reign of Jol in ended.
Under provisions which this fatherly monarch had made, his little mountain-rimmed domain ceases to have a princely ruler and becomes virtually a part of Switzerland.

If you are a map traveler, Liechtenstein-bound, follow the castled Rhine, skirt the Black Forest to Basel, swing east past the Falls to the shed at Friedrichshafen, and you are on the Lake of Constance, or Bodensee, shared by Switzerland, Austria, and Germany. Turn south for 20 miles up the broad valley between Switzerland and Austria and you reach the northern tip of the principality of Liechtenstein, which for the next 15 miles looks west across the Rhine.

To reach Liechtenstein in person requires self-discipline. One must leave Paris and Switzerland behind and stop short of Vienna and Budapest. Forego an evening in Paris, be aboard the Budapest sleeper just before 9, and before lunch time you will arrive at Buchs, Switzerland. A few miles to the east you will be set down at Schaan-Vaduz, the division line station between Schellenberg and Vaduz, once separate units and fiefs of the Roman Empire.

To the right the narrow plain between mile-high mountains and the Rhine stretches away toward Sargans, off the south tip of the Lilliputian land. To the left is the "low country."

One who thinks of the principality as a part of the Swiss customs union expects this small mountain-side state to be west of the Rhine, leaning against St. Gallen instead of hanging to the shoulder of Vorarlberg. But political changes hurdle a river easier than mountain-high mountains do.
Until 1919, free Liechtenstein was economically allied to Austria. The "K. K." denoting kaiser and king, on the Schaan post office, though partly obliterated, is still visible.

Agriculture and Industry.
Here the Rhine is no romantic river for deep-water sailors, with a prima donna mermaid parading her tresses before bobbed-haired tourists. It is a shallow, stony torrent bed, now dry in spots, now foaming with the force of Alpine glaciers. Man has taken the river in hand, overcome its meandering habits, and confined it between prosaic, though curving banks.

Between the Rhine and the swayback ridge of Liechtenstein is a narrow plain devoted to hay, corn and grain, with orchards here and there, stately poplars marking some roads and vineyards on the gentler slopes.
At the place where it curls up to cliff and mountain meadow, a road, split into a Y by the Schellenberg, unites the valley towns from Ruggell and Schaanwald to Klein Mels.

Schaan, with 1,400 inhabitants, is at the focus of the three branches and the short international road to Buchs. Its chief landmark is a sharp-spired church whose architect borrowed inspiration from the needles of rock above it.

To the right the mowing-machine blade of a saw-tooth factory roof cuts the green of pine and beech. Farther south is the capital, with the old chateau, founded on Roman ruins, hanging over it like an eagle perched above its nest and looking at the eggs between its feet.

To the right of the castle the bottle green forest, veiling the faces of half domes upon whose tops are pleasant plateaus, merges the broken pattern of the rolling Triesenberg, whose chalet groups dot a park-like region between barren terminal mountains.
Below is Triesen, from whose one factory chimney Rhine coal smokes when winter flies up the otherwise inexhaustible water power.

The mowing-machine blade between Schaan and Vaduz edges a spinning-mill roof. The Triesen smockstack risers above the looms of an allied weaving mill equipped with the latest apparatus for humidifying the atmosphere. The raw cotton comes from America. The cloth is sold in Itadu-pest. The 300 weavers come from the valley towns and down from the Triesenberg.

Views of Mountain and Valley.

South of Triesen there is little evidence of man's works. At Balzers a large memorial church and a rock mass surmounted by Burg Gutenberg, never captured, but now used as a hotel, are dwarfed by the Mittagspizze and the Falknis, and are almost lost in the broadened plan whence a valley road mounts Luzensteg. At the foot of the Swiss Fläschberg, which balances the Schellenberg, is Klein Mels.
The small cluster of homes is merged into a green plain cut by a white road leading to the Klein-Mels Trubbach bridge, one of the four-covered wooden structures which furnish communication with Switzerland across the man-timed Rhine.

To north, the arms of the Y confine a wide triangle of level, marshy land, with three small groups of houses spaced across its farther edge. Above them rises the Schellenberg, a low rolling hill dyaried by flanking mountains.

Above Schaan towers a wild rock face, scarred and torn by time's shrapnel. Closing in the southern end of the landscape is the Falknis group, almost as rugged. Between the 7,000-foot Kuhnspizze and 8,429-foot Falknis the country's backbone dips to a scant 5,000 feet, so that one can look across this saddle to the Naafkopf, whose 8,441 feet, shared with Austria and Switzerland, marks the highest of a dozen or so more-than-mile-high peaks in this pigmy principality.

At the sag in the ridge the cross-country road saves a few feet of height by means of a short tunnel

joining the populous Triesenberg with the deserted slopes of the Samina valley. In summer one walks through this dripping tube from the beak of hayfields to the sound of grazing cattle swaying melodious bells.

The Samina valley, narrow, thickly wooded for the most part, and lightened at its bottom by a silver-green impetuous river, cannot be seen from the Swiss slope, but as the observer inclines in his view the heights beyond it, he can safely be said to command the entire country in one place.

Travelers Can See It All.

Probably no other state except Monaco has been seen in its entirety by so many people. Neither Andorra nor San Marino is so advantageously placed. Every visitor in the Swiss society resorts of Davos and St. Moritz could look the length of the principality from Sargans before his train turns south away from Liechtenstein.

The traveler to the Lake of Constance and Germany passes the whole land in review. The passenger train to Innsbruck and the Tyrol or the tri-weekly Orient express rides the rails that separate Liechtenstein into the high lands and low.

Schaan, express stop and entrepo-t, has plate glass windows in which ready-made gowns in late styles are displayed, though the women usually spend their money for durable goggama. One shopkeeper has tempted fate by keeping modern machinery.

The house on at Vaduz might not please fastidious travelers. The only running water is in a stone trough outside each bedroom window. Yet one looks back on it with longing.
What if the lower hall was a thoroughfare for half the town? Even so humble a capital must have its Peacock alley. The food was clean and comfortable. The food, too clean and plentiful for all but active folk, was designed to satisfy one who had traveled along mountain trails.

From the first day, one becomes a citizen. Man, maid, and child, all look over one with keen but friendly appraisal. And what a delight it is to pass this informal inspection and be greeted with the password, "Gruss Gott!" usually shortened to "Grut," with neighborliness compressed even into that short syllable!

Flashes of Life
Sketched in Brief

(By The Associated Press)

Washington—Justice Marian E. Stone, who once played football for Calum Coghlan's Alma Mater, has lots of stuff at seasons of the medicine ball cabinet, as Mr. Hoover and Hugh Gibson can testify. The story is that one Stone lost affected the Presidential wind and another marked up a diplomatic rose.

Hoboken, N. J.—The Chamber of Commerce objects to the conduct of the park avenue trade that comes to Hoboken to see oldtime melodrama revived. The Chamber's newspaper notes a tendency toward what borders on rowdiness and cheap buffoonery of wags, many of whom are fortified with cheap stimulants not all of which is obtained in Hoboken.

Berkeley, Cal.—California, here they come, mean college athletes on the eastern seaboard. Two crews are going to Poughkeepsie and a track team to Philadelphia.

Philadelphia—Frank H. Thomas, 72, and Isabella C. Oliver, 71, have obtained a marriage license, one day after Miss Oliver's mother died at 90. "Mother forbade my marrying till after she died," explained Miss Oliver. "She maintained I would have plenty of time after that."

New York—James Duckett, an Indianapolis youth, wandered from home to seek his fortune. Cold and hoarse, he was on Broadway wandering where to get a job when he found a check for $1,444,444—yes, a million, a bonafide check, lost by a broker's messenger. James looked in a directory and delivered the check. He got thanks, congratulations, $20 and the promise of a job.

New York—An invasion by apartment houses is likely to drive Mayor Walker out of Greenwich Village. He says he may have to sell for $50,000 or so the old homestead his father bought 20 years ago for $15,000, much as he hates to leave the neighborhood.

Washington—Guess we'll have to go up in the air soon to find room to more. Official figures are that there were 24,432,124 motor vehicles in the country last year.

Washington—The body of a man should be able to get a job. May indulge in when laborious work ceases 21 adjustment. Fred Martley, Jr., of Kearney, N. J., was 76 years old last Washington birthday, was a soprano soloist as boy and later started a jazz orchestra at Rutgers.

DEVOENew Paltz Normal Girls to Present "Tommy" Tonight

"Tommy," the three-act comedy with which professional casts have been scoring one success after another in some of the largest cities of the country, is the play that will be staged by New Paltz Normal School students, under the auspices of the Newman Club of this city, at St. Mary's Hall this evening.

The play is a delightfully entertaining comedy, chosen for the cast that made such a big hit with "The Patsy" last year. The New Paltz girls put "Tommy" across in even a more accomplished manner than they did their first stage success. This is vouched for by the faculty of New Paltz Normal School, who praise the play to the fullest extent.

"Tommy" was presented for the first time by the Normal girls at Colonial Hall, New Paltz. On the occasion the theatre was filled to the doors. Many had to stand, but considered the play so interesting that they regarded the inconvenience as trifling.

All for whom it is possible, are urged to attend the staging of "Tommy" at St. Mary's Hall Friday night, not because it has been classed by those who saw the Normal girls stage it, as the best amateur production they ever witnessed, but because it has a record of pleasing audiences at 232 performances in New York city.

Tickets for the show, which will be followed by dancing, are on sale by members of the Newman Club. Admission will also be sold at the door.

Building Since WarCost $52,000,000,000

New York.—A total of $52,000,000,000 has been invested in new buildings since the war by the American people, according to a survey just made. Expenditures during 1929, it is estimated, will add $7,500,000,000 to this total.

How this expenditure affects lines of activity allied with the construction industry was indicated by a large increase in the production of common and face brick in 1927 as compared with the year 1919.

Old Roman Sacrifice
The relief of Anaglyphs Train in the Roman Forum represents the sacrifice of the bull, sheep and pig which annually accompanied the purificatory ceremonies or laetitia. Each animal represents a valuable part of the farmer's stock. The ceremonies generally took place at the close of the census and for the army at the beginning of a campaign and probably also in connection with the founding of temples and other similar occasions. The animals were led around the arena by and then sacrificed.

Bluffed Intruder
Confronted by a housebreaker while he was lying in bed, John Stone, thirteen, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Stone of Gardiner, Maine, did not crawl under the sheets and whimper, but instead called out to the man who had dashed a light on the bed, "What's the big idea?" "I was sent here," replied the intruder; then he turned and left the house as he had entered it—Exchange.

School Men's Club Meeting.
The School Men's Club met at the Sanier Sanitarium Thursday evening, where the members were guests of Dr. Raymond S. Cripe at dinner. A smoker followed the dinner at which there was singing and informal talks on many subjects, including an address on "The Making of a Newspaper" by a member of The Freeman staff.

Group Funerals for Tornado Victims

Services Held in Two Arkansas Villages Which Were Brunt of Storm—Damage So Complete That Little Can Be Saved from Wreckage.

Little Rock, Ark., April 12 (AP).—Three group funerals of victims of the tornado which Wednesday swept sections of north Arkansas taking a toll of life which stood at 25 today, were to be held this afternoon at Gulon and Swifton, two villages which bore the brunt of the storm.

Two small rural cemeteries near Swifton each are to receive the bodies of 11 victims, while at Gulon, six of those who lost their lives in the storm which razed the entire town, are to be buried.

Meanwhile, the work of rehabilitation was going forward under direction of Red Cross workers, and Major C. H. Barham and Captain Lee V. Casey of the adjutant general's staff, dispatched to the area to take charge of relief efforts instituted by Governor Parnell.

The first eye witness accounts of the storm which demolished Gulon were furnished early today by residents there. Not one building was left of more than a hundred and fifty. Throughout yesterday, those who were not injured searched. Little will be salvaged from the wreckage, observers said, so complete was the damage wrought. What was not destroyed or damaged by the wind was water soaked from a torrential rain.

Victim Describes Tornado.
One of the victims related from his cot in a temporary hospital at Batesville, the approach of the tornado. He said it appeared from the west down the White river. As it approached, it sucked up the water into a whirling spout and the lower portion of the village was drenched.

"One viewing the wreckage after the storm passed could not understand how even a cat could have escaped," one victim related. "The death list would have been much larger had citizens not taken refuge in storm cellars. Many hurried to tunnels in sandstone quarries and escaped."

After leaving Gulon one branch of the tornado swept through to Mount Pleasant, wrecking farm houses as it went.

Persons at Brookwell and Melbourne reported small tornadoes, but little damage resulted.

Heavy hail storms occurred over large areas of the state, particularly in Fulton and Izard counties, just north of the storm area.

ROTARIANS LEARN HOW TO MAKE HATS

Paul Zucca exhibited and explained a moving picture reel at the Rotary Club luncheon at the Governor Clinton this week and as a result Rotarians now know all about how men's hats are made. The picture showed the process from the time the rabbits and other animals that supply the material for fur felt is made.

Through the completion of the hat. Of course they were Stetson hats. The pictures and Mr. Zucca's explanation were very interesting.

Benedictine Aid Extends Thanks

At a meeting of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Benedictine Hospital held Thursday afternoon in the nurses' home, the committee chairman of this Easter Ball extended thanks and expressed their appreciation for the great cooperation received, which made the ball a great social and financial success. Sister Benedict, superintendent, on behalf of the sisters of the Benedictine, thanked all those who in any way assisted the auxiliary.

A final report has not been made as there are a number of returns still to be handed in. The auxiliary requests that returns be made promptly so that the entire proceeds can be turned over to the hospital.

Welcome Viking
Car to KingstonImpending Reception and Parade Marked Arrival Here of General Motors' Latest Product in Automobile Line.

The latest product of General Motors, the Viking, companion car to Oldsmobile, was introduced to Kingston Thursday evening in a most unusual manner by Southard & Beichert, Inc., local Oldsmobile dealers. At the Roundabout Creek Bridge the Viking, a new V type 36 degree eight cylinder car, was met by a large delegation of Oldsmobile owners and the Ulster county dealers and headed by Kingston Post, No. 150, American Legion Drum Corps, the new car was escorted through the streets of the city from the Strand to Wall street and back to the Southard & Beichert, Inc., show rooms at Broadway and Field Court, where the car was unveiled to the public by Mayor E. J. Dempsey. At the show rooms was a large crowd of interested people who listened to an explanation of the mechanical features of the car. M. H. Parsons, assistant factory branch manager for Oldsmobile at the New York plant, was in charge. At the head of the parade as it swung up Broadway was a figure garbed as a Viking of old.

Previous to the parade there was given a dinner at the Governor Clinton Hotel to the Oldsmobile dealers and salesmen in the county as well as to the dealers of Kingston who sell General Motors cars. At this dinner, which was attended by Mr. Parsons as well as W. M. Henderson, district representative for Oldsmobile and Viking, many of the mechanical features of the Viking were explained and following the dinner the guests were given a demonstration in the Viking.

Among those present at the dinner were M. H. Parsons, assistant branch manager; W. H. Henderson, district representative; William J. McGrath and D. A. DeGraft, of the Kingston Buick agency; A. B. Abernethy and R. M. Sutcliffe, of the Chevrolet agency; R. M. Martin, representing the Forayth & Davis agency, handling Oakland and Pontiac; Alex D. Ferguson, of the Cadillac-LaSalle agency, all handling General Motors products, as well as the following Oldsmobile dealers from the county: Thomas Elliot, New Paltz; L. E. DuBois, Ashokan; Roy Van Eiten, Kerhonkson; Jack Goldstein, Ellenville; and P. Joseph Beichert and Monroe T. Southard, of Southard & Beichert, Inc.

Viking is an eight cylinder car of the V-type which will sell for less than $2,000 delivered and will be sold as a companion car to Oldsmobile. The Viking is a medium large car with ample wheel base and large roomy bodies and attractive lines. Southard & Beichert, Inc., who will handle the car, will have a demonstration on view at their show rooms where the public is invited to inspect it. The car which was on display Thursday evening was driven from New York by Mr. Parsons and on his arrival in Kingston he spoke in very enthusiastic terms of the performance of the car on the trip.

Simple Way to Handle
Child's Fear of Dark

If your child develops a fear of the dark, do you know how to handle it? It is possible to cure him in a very simple way. When you put him to bed tonight, leave the door partly open and a dim light burning in the hall. The child will go to sleep. Then, gradually, close the door a little and dim the light a little every night. If you work patiently, four or five nights will enable you to reconduct the child so that the door can be closed and the light turned out. If you do not control the child in this patient way, you may, by shouting at him or spanking him, keep him from whimpering out loud when you put him to bed in the dark, but he will lie in bed trembling with fear. This is not your aim. Your real purpose should be to remove the fear, to reconduct the child. Children, the Magazine for Parents.

BRITISH EXCHANGE
HAS LONG HISTORYBrokers Are Mentioned as Far Back as 1483.

London.—The growing public demand that the London Stock Exchange be opened on Saturday in conformity with the New York Stock Exchange, a question which has been hotly fought out in the house of commons, has brought the institution into the limelight.

The discussion illustrates the great changes which the stock exchange has undergone as the result of the war. Saturday closing is a postwar practice, but it is one of the few viewed with disfavor by advocates of better business. The majority have been vast improvements on the methods previously permitted.

There now are more facilities and greater protection for the investor than formerly, and there is a higher efficiency of service. Before the war it was possible for anyone to introduce shares on the stock exchange.

Rule on New Issues.

The committee for general purposes, composed of thirty members elected annually, has now so tightened the rules that no issue may be introduced without its permission. This is given only following the publication of responsible statements giving information about the firms controlling the particular issue. The committee's procedure has greatly increased the respect in which the stock exchange is now held as a public institution with grave responsibilities toward the community. It is this committee that will finally decide Saturday closing if it becomes evident that public opinion demands it.

The stock exchange has its roots as deep down in history as the reign of Edward III, 1327-1377, when brokers and brokerage are referred to by contemporary writers, but, practically speaking, an exchange of stocks as a business enterprise began only toward the end of the Seventeenth century.

London stock brokers first conducted their business in and around the royal exchange, then in the coffee houses of Change alley and in the rotunda of the Bank of England. In the year 1773 they formed themselves into an association called the Stock Exchange, Ltd., with headquarters at the corner of Sweeting alley and Threadneedle street.

Built in 1801.
The present stock exchange at Capel court, Bartholomew lane, came into existence in 1801, when a capital of $100,000 was raised and the new building was commenced. The structure was entirely rebuilt some years later and considerable extensions have since been made.

Stock brokerage and jobbing did not always command the respect that is now accorded them. Manipulation of the market brought down the censure of parliament in 1771, which declared in an act that brokers and stock jobbers were habitually combining unlawfully to raise or lower the value of securities for their own private advantage. Dealers in stocks were in those days looked down upon as odious, and many were executed for fraud.

Membership in the London stock exchange is on a very different basis from that in the New York Stock Exchange. A member is elected for twelve months only and must be re-elected annually if he wishes to retain his membership. The year ends March 25. The candidate must be recommended by three members, who become surety for him during the first four years from the date of his admission in the sum of $2,500 each.

Every member must purchase at least one share in the stock exchange (limited), but may not own more than 200 shares. The company is under the control of nine trustees and managers, appointed by the shareholders.

Boy Reverses Theory
and Better Potatoes

Burlington, Vt.—Because he did an unusual thing Maurice A. Holbrook, sixteen-year-old 4-H club boy, protected his potatoes from blight last year while those of his neighbors suffered.

In the midst of a light steady rain, which promotes blight, he went into the field and dusted the plants with bordeaux.

"People told me it would wash right off, but did it!" the young experimenter remarks. "The next week showed the results. Potatoes were drying right and left, but mine were not touched. Now, when I sell a bushel of potatoes I can say, 'Mister, these spuds won't rot!'"

Finds He's Been Hiding
From $350,000 Bequest

Oakland, Cal.—After staying in seclusion for five weeks, E. M. Kuhl, Oakland house painter, discovered he had been hiding from a $350,000 fortune left by his mother, who died in Oklahoma.

Kuhl said he had been a witness in a federal court trial and that "somebody" had threatened "to get him." Five weeks ago, he explained, he was informed that a "mysterious man" was looking for him and immediately thought this "somebody" was the same person and went into hiding. The mysterious man, he found, was an attorney seeking to inform him of his inheritance.

Palmer Canfield
Favors Athletic Field for K. H. S.

Hopes Board of Education Will Consider Athletic Field in Rear of School After Addition Is Erected—Tells Students To Be Appreciative of Opportunity.

Palmer Canfield, prohibition administrator of northern New York, gave an address delivered Thursday morning to Kingston High School students at assembly, advocating the creating of an athletic field in the rear of the high school building. He stated if it had not been for the year the field would have been there ten years ago.

Following is the address delivered to the pupils:

I recall standing on this lot fifteen years ago when I assisted in laying the cornerstone of this building as Mayor of the city. I am now one year later standing upon this platform when the school was dedicated. In this school at least ten thousand boys and girls have trained for speed and womanhood and prepared themselves for vocations and life's work and generally for citizenship. Kingston High School—you have done well!

If one policy more than any other has determined the destiny of our country it is our general and common school education. The making of education open to all and compulsory has created in our country the greatest hope of mankind. Education is the greatest doctor because it cures more wrongs than all other agencies combined.

Now, girls and boys, be appreciative of the opportunity given you to attend this school. Be grateful to your country, your state, your city and your parents, all of whom contribute towards this opportunity. Then be grateful to your teachers and instructors. The Board of Education representing the people of the city and spending the money of the people do not purchase the services of these teachers. They purchase the lives of the teachers. Each year they buy about three per cent of the life of each teacher. So, each of your teachers gives to you each year about three per cent of his or her life. The best way you can show your appreciation is by being animated with a desire to learn and by being dominated by the will to learn.

You live in a fortunate age. There has been a greater development in general education during the past fifty years than in the preceding two thousand years. There are over 250,000 schools in this country. There is only one institution that costs more than the school and that is the home. Supposing you lived in a certain other country where education is forbidden to over ninety-five per cent of the people. Yet, the first high school in this country was built only about one hundred years ago.

So, your teachers are trying to discover the implications and the significance of the essentials of education. There are many different conceptions of the function of education. Speaking generally it must be conceded that it has a direct application to the mental, moral and physical development of the students. It should not only feed but quicken and stimulate the mind of the students, promote their general health and physical vigor, and enrich their spiritual appreciation. So, a school must recognize its vital potentialities to the students or future adult citizens. Your teachers have made a study of education to help prepare you for life. They must labor to prevent the miscarriage of their educational effort. I do not commend them because they commend themselves to you. Help them and show appreciation to them by diligent application and concentration. You will never regret it.

Now, returning to school programs that are or should be formulated with a proper regard for the physical welfare of the students as well as their mental development. The processes of mental and character development are identical in many respects to the process of physical training and development. Proper physical training through games and contests stimulates many qualities that help to produce a round, elastic and versatile character and personality and gives growth to qualities that provide a better understanding of life and a better adjustment to the struggle of life.

The play instinct in all normal and healthy youths is a natural, desirable and essential one. Every school should provide the opportunity and the freedom of play. It is not useless or mere amusement. It cannot be separated from the educational efforts of the school because it is a part of such efforts.

Athletic Field in Rear of School.

I have been emphasizing the science of physical training and development because I had something definite in mind. I assume the board of education will take immediate steps to erect a proper addition to this school so that the much needed available space will be provided. I am hoping when this is done that consideration will be given to a proper athletic and play field. The land is available to the rear of the school. It requires development under a proper plan. Many times did I visit it during the eight years I was mayor. If it had not been for the war the field would have been there ten years ago. Our plan was to level the top of the hill for tennis and other games. The eastern side was to be cut down and deep concrete steps built to constitute seats for the spectators witnessing the games. The athletic field for track events and field games was to be between the hill or seats and Andrew street and was to take the form of a semi-stadium. I hope that plan or a better plan can be carried out.

Such a playfield would be a direct contribution to the school and to the entire city. Indirectly it would favorably influence the school life of all the pupils. I learned just a little bit about sensing the wishes of the people. I feel certain that the people of this city who spend a million dollars each year for the movies and similar recreation, and who spend several millions each year upon automobiles, would favor such a playfield. It would cost only a few thousands of dollars under proper municipal financing. It would give to the teachers and the students of Kingston High School a sense of unity of enthusiasm and cooperation, and to the public a community of interest in the value of which could not be measured in dollars.

In conclusion, let me repeat the thought of a great man, that in life or in play there are two pleasures for your choosing—the one is winning and the other losing. The winning, whether in the game of football or in the game of life, means patient and persevering training and work, courage to overcome obstacles and difficulties, and the development of all your best faculties. It is not a question of commanding success but deserving it. It is not to obtain what you merit but to merit what you obtain. The concluding lines of Longfellow's Psalm of Life have always appealed to me:

"Still achieving, still pursuing,
Learn to labour and to wait."
The initials K. H. S. might be interpreted to mean "Keep High Service."

Navy Is Popular for Misses' Dresses

Flowered Chiffons, Tulle, Prominent Among Materials Favored

When a girl goes to school, she finds the problem of finding suitable dresses at all difficult. It is not only the matter of finding a dress that is suitable for school, but also the matter of finding a dress that is suitable for the home. The girl who is a fashion writer in the New York World.

When you have a deep yearning for a beautiful evening dress of undoubted quality and your mother is firm in her preference for pink, red, blue, or green, you will ever come of it. With this problem in mind several of the large shops have started new departments dedicated to the sale of dresses, but referred to in fact as French as catering to the "jeune fille."

The old misses' department have been so crowded by the small women of legitimate growing tastes that they have gradually acquired an air of antiquity which makes most of their costumes too worldly to pass muster at even the most lenient boarding school.

The radical differences between the costumes proper to those who are seventeen and those who are still hopelessly waiting are in the evening dresses. The most demure of these are set aside for boarding school dress-up evenings, when long sleeves and other boring features are usually required. These gowns appear in their prettiest versions in flowered chiffons that show a small, widely scattered pattern on a pale ground. Chiffon and tulle are the fabrics most employed, and a quite respectable bouffant effect is permitted in the latter material. In the more dashing costumes which the girl may wear for formal dinner during vacations, sleeves are omitted, but only the primest suggestion of a décolleté is considered smart. The unadorned hem is also reserved for those blessed days after the debut and it is left very strongly by the authorities in such matters that Louiseboulanger did not design the down-in-the-back movement for young girls still awaiting their diplomas.

Flowered Tulle Party Dresses. One charming affair suitable to these trying years is an adaptation of Auguste Bernard's deep blue tulle and tulle, with its tight little bodice, high waistline and tiers and tiers of ruffles making the flaring skirt. In some versions a tulle skirt is substituted. There are many beguiling ruffles and tiny sleeves appear.

Another amusing evening dress, of yellow tulle this time, has a properly modest neckline and arm-holes and has the very high waistline emphasized by a large crushed choker of navy blue tulle. This would be a splendid compromise between the Pola Negri leanness of the daughter and her mother's more conservative taste.

Two-toned tulle affairs, made up in quaint lines, are considered good.

and flowered tulle is charming. Watch for pale butterfly hems and for diagonal tulle collars that cover the shoulders instead of sleeves.

As for an daytime dress, the new one for the young girl. Since every woman who goes into a sports costume hopes to look seventeen, the girl of this age is striving pretty. She will find that this year's smartest daytime things emphasize the one-piece dress accompanied by an important little jacket in preference to the two-piece mode. There will be a wide belt defining the natural waistline.

There will be shown many combinations of a jersey dress and jersey coat, or of a coat, blouse and little jacket, all of jersey. In such outfits as these, and also when a jersey blouse accompanies the conventional tweed suit, the newest practice is to have the blouse of a darker shade than the coat and skirt. The blouse is almost always of the tuck-in variety, about which there is such a pother these days. If any one can carry off this fashion with grace, it is the young thing whose waistline is a gloriously concrete fact.

Costs May Be Double-Breasted. Several good examples of all these types of costume are now available for spring. One smart ensemble, carried out in a two-tone arrangement of solid bands of color contrasting at various points, has a knife-plaited skirt which suddenly goes straight just above the hips. A tiny belt, placed high, emphasizes the thin waist that is the reward of basket ball practice, and the accompanying little jacket has a scarf collar. An interesting craze dress is printed in a conventional artistic pattern (the obviously young things are not going to have any monopoly on the national colors for spring), and is interesting in illustrating the new straight up and down back which has not far to go. The skirt is circular only in the front, a bow at the waist draws the blouse to a high waistline in the front only and the little jacket is unlined. Coats for the upper demand earnest attention as she is forbidden for scarfs and must always worry along with whatever fur may come attached to the collar.

Youthful Outfit for Spring, With Coat of Tweed and Knit Cap.

coat. Some smart coats are being shown in a sort of string tweed and some in that novelty tweed that looks heavy and is light.

The coats and suits are accompanied by simple scarf collars or else are finished off, man's style, with a notched collar, to be later supplemented by a folded scarf of heavy silk. The coats may be full or three-quarters length, but must have an air of deliberate simplicity. A very chic coat is double-breasted and has only two buttons, arranged horizontally.

Many of the suits are made on equally severe lines in plain tweed, and have either a short or three-quarter length coat. One suit of the latter type is of the double-breasted school and has a broad suede belt and a skirt intended to be worn with a tucked-in blouse.

Lighter suits are made of shark-skin, worsted wool or man's suiting, and are thoroughly businesslike affairs, with notched collars, a kick plait on either side of the skirt and a double-breasted coat.

Navy and white will be a smart color combination for the spring ensemble. A navy repp jacket suit that is faintly bordered with a band of white wool, the overblouse a blue and white printed affair of unusual possibilities, with an off-the-forehead hat, comprises an outfit that bids for favor. Smart and youthful is a coat of tweed, worn with an orange and tomato scarf, and an angora knit cap.

Gay Colors for Hats. The spring hats show a large variety of straws and near-straws which are used in combination with felt crowns. Braid, tweed straws and milan braid straws are shown in all shades from pale pastels to a red that would give any bull a bad fit of hysteria. The tam, the beret and the turban in their less sophisticated versions are all grist to the young girl's mill. One floppy tam is of angora straw in the orchid shade that will be very popular when summer is definitely here. The gob hat, worn by languid ladies on the Riviera beaches, is developed in a two-toned crocheted straw with a smart little velvet bow placed immediately on the top of the head.

A rather less casual hat of this type is developed in a wool and straw braid of pink and white and shows a little lining of French blue grosgrain ribbon about the scalloped brim. Utterly shapeless and charming are some hats of tricolor wool braid that looks like straw and cannot be crushed by the most indefatigable of school children. The Deauville cap, developed in wool jersey of the stocking-comp sort, uses two bright colors combined in alternating pie-slices. Beret tams, hand crocheted in Austria in modernistic patterns, will tempt many mothers to sneak into their daughter's closets and coolly annex them.

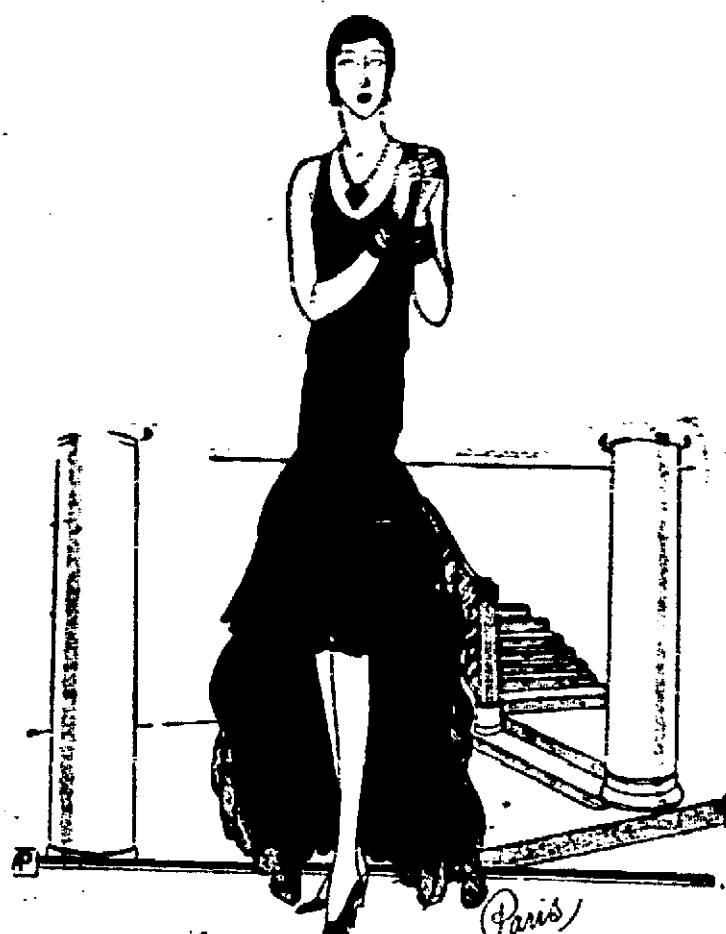

More conventional hats of straw will be interesting this year in that their very noticeable brims will usually be even all the way around. Later peanut straws, bakus and milans will be very important and hats of woven straw will be shown in two tones that carry out the check idea.

Gingham is being stressed for summer wear and lots of hats will have gingham crowns, broad straw brims and triangular scarfs of matching gingham.

Too Much Sleep Possible. Dr. Risien Russell raises the point that just as most people eat too much there is a probability that many indulge in too much sleep. But this does not apply to children.

Tobacco brown is having a big vogue for evening. Saw it worn at the opera the other night by a willowy English client of Molyneux, who had selected the famous chiffon model with tiered skirt, and wore it like a modern Diana.

Eleanor Gunn Says

That the Spanish trim, by which is meant trimming used close against the hair, and under the brim, is one of the new millinery features.

Grey is reported as being very much in evidence at Cannes where a great many chic people are assembled.

Chokers and slightly longer necklaces with colored stones are being much worn in Paris and here.

Many spring coats are collarless which means that fox and scarf-like furs will be worn.

Tinted pearls are smarter than natural pearl shades, and of course the brown and beige tones are best liked.

Paris now approves wearing two chokers at once, and also six little hoop rings for the little finger, each ring a different stone, but identical in design.

Coral, especially African coral which has a slightly orange tone, is very smart.

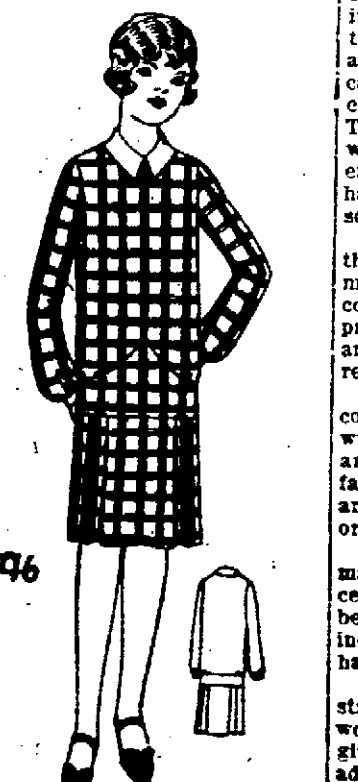

Sleeveless dresses are being shown by all smart shops, in novelty cottons, shirtings and in more elaborate effects. The sleeveless dress promises to be an outstanding summer fashion.

Jacket costumes remain in high favor for sports especially.

Tulle and lace are an effective combination for summer, and bids fair to rival chiffon and lace.

OUR DAILY PATTERN.

A Good Style for a School Dress. 6446. Plaid woolen in brown tones was chosen for this attractive model, with plain woolen in a beige shade for collar and cuffs. This is also a good style for jersey, crepe and for cotton prints. A hip band shaped in a split curve in front, joins the waist, and the skirt which is arranged in plaits to form a wide panel over the center front and back. The sleeve is full above a band cuff. The neck is finished with a rolled collar.

The pattern for this pleasing model is cut in 4 sizes: 6, 8, 10 and 12 years. To make the dress for a 10 year size will require 2 1/2 yards of 36 inch material. For collar and cuffs of contrasting material 1/2 yard is required 36 inches wide.

A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 12c in coin or stamps by the Pattern Department, The Freeman, Kingston, N. Y. Be sure to state the size wanted.

Fashion Book Notice.

Send 15c in coin or stamps to The Freeman for our up-to-date Spring and Summer 1929 Book of Fashions showing color plates, and containing 500 designs of ladies', misses' and children's patterns, a concise and comprehensive article on dressmaking, also some points for the needle (illustrating 30 of the various simple stitches), all valuable hints to the home dressmaker.

ELEANOR GUNN ON FASHIONS

In Anticipation of the Mid-Summer Fashions

New York.—The sleeveless one piece dress with accompanying jacket threatens to become the uniform of the summer girl. It is acclaimed here and abroad and, was reported from all fashionable winter resorts. There are several versions of this costume made on two piece model lines with jacket, coat or cape, preferably the former.

More extreme, but worthy of recognition is the sports, and daytime frock which has the back decolletage of an evening gown, this for purposes of acquiring health and sunburn. Usually the back is cut in rather a wide U shape, although V's are not neglected. In line with the back bared to the sun, is the fad of going stockingless which many believe will take great hold on women this summer in spite of all the hosiery interests are doing to offset it. Socks with decorative tops are being offered for sports wear and appear to have a likely future.

Scarfs remain very definitely in the style picture. They have acquired several new shapes and are again being wanted in rather large squares so that they may be adjusted to offer some protection to the upper part of the arm, provided the dress is sleeveless. There are so many colors and designs being offered that it is quite impossible to do more than outline their most appealing characteristics. Color, boldly applied and boldly contrasting with another color, seems to be the basic idea of all scarfs. Triangular and square shapes have the call. There is also a demand for exaggerated wide Windsor ties. These are also longer than is usual with this type of tie, and are worn either bowed, or hanging straight, having been run through a clasp of some sort.

The separate blouse again engages the attention of smart folks. It may be a tuck-in or blouse but it commands respect because of the prestige accorded it at the openings and because so many women have responded.

Blouses nearly always are of a contrasting color to the costume with which they are worn, and they are to be had in a vast array of fabrics the most interesting of which are pique, handkerchief linen and organdie.

It now appears that women have made up their minds to not only accept cotton, but to glorify it. It is being used for all manner of things including millinery and matching handbags.

While any number of smart straw hats are being shown and worn, women refuse to altogether give up the felt hat. They have adopted the little navy beret peculiar to the Basque and wear it for motoring, golf and tennis. Speaking of tennis, Cannes received a shock during the height of its season when two tennis players came on the courts wearing men's attire, white flannel trousers and all. The wide spread vogue of pajamas is credited with this new departure. Sleeveless sweaters and navy berets completed their costumes.

Formulas for Dishwashers. There is much truth in the saying that "nobody ever got rich on a farm." There is deeper truth in Henry Ford's motto: "Nobody ever got rich trying to get rich."—Farm and Fireside.

EX-GOV. LOWDEN TALKS WITH PREMIER MUSSOLINI

Rome, April 12 (AP).—Two international known farmers exchanged experiences over a table in the Chigi Palace this afternoon. One was former Governor Frank O. Lowden, of Illinois, and the other Premier Mussolini.

The duke, said Mr. Lowden, displayed a keen knowledge of agricultural conditions, not only in his own country but in other nations as well, and particularly asked what was the status of farm relief measures in America, and whether congress would grant them.

The interview, which lasted about ten minutes, was otherwise devoted to generalities.

Mr. Lowden declared that the duke had impressed him by his virility and courtesy.

Financial and Commercial

New York, April 12 (AP).—Definite signs of easing credit conditions coupled with a continuance of favorable trade news furnished the background for a broad advance in prices in today's stock market. Despite rather heavy week-end profit-taking and sporadic bear selling of some of the speculative issues, prices of a long list of stocks were pushed up one to nearly nine points, with at least a dozen moving into new high ground for the year.

Call money renewed at 5 per cent, then dropped to 4 1/2 per cent, which have been accumulating funds in anticipation of the heavy mid-month payments next Monday, seized an opportunity to employ these funds at highly profitable rates over the week-end.

The upturn was by no means uniform, some of the recent favorites were under pressure of realizing. Such a one was American Rolling Mill, which sold off about 3 points during the morning.

Directors of the Chicago Federal Reserve Bank today followed the action of the New York directors yesterday in making no change in the 5 per cent discount rate.

It was among the few important groups which failed to participate extensively in the upturn. Real estate issues of this nature were attributed to the growing speculative belief that the forthcoming O'Fallon case decision by the United States Supreme Court might not definitely settle the troublesome valuation and rate problem.

Extension of advances in gasoline prices brought fresh buying into the oil shares, but the early gains were held to a point or two. U. S. Steel Common was again in the forefront of the advance, touching a new high on the current upswing.

Radio Corporation Common again sold close to par after dropping sharply when weakness cropped out in some of the other radio issues earlier in the week.

New high records for the year were established by a variety of issues, including American Can, Burroughs Adding Machine, Glidden Company, Sturtevant Carburetor, Texas Gulf Sulphur, United Aircraft and Yellow Truck and Coach.

Over 400 members of the Eastern Star and Masonic order representing chapters of the Greene-Utler and other districts filled Norbury Hall Monday evening for the official visit of M. W. Amy Bishop Crocker, grand matron, and other officers to the Greene-Utler district. M. W. Benjamin D. Scott, grand patron, was unable to attend because of illness.

Seventy-five attended a banquet given in the grand matron's honor at the Wayside Inn, previous to the meeting. Norbury Hall was beautifully decorated in the Eastern Star colors and with flowers, ferns, etc., by Irving Strauss and a committee of the Masonic Club. Of the ten chapters in the Greene-Utler district, all but four of the matrons were present. Chapters in Quebec, New York City, Pennsylvania, New Jersey and other states were also represented.

The program presented in honor of the grand matron was as follows: Opening ceremonies by officers of Wawarsing Chapter; introduction of M. W. Eva Van Kirk, D. D. G. M., and R. W. Cyrus T. Carle, A. G. L. by Fannie S. Lambert, past matron, and Dr. F. A. Beutmann, past patron; song to grand matron, Edna Edd; welcome and introduction of M. W. Amy Bishop Crocker, G. M., by M. W. Eva Van Kirk, D. D. SOCIAL LIFE RUN BY RIGID RULES

Washington Matrons Must Watch Their Step.

Washington.—Business who come into this capital city with the new administration are certain to find that their social knowledge, however extensive it may be, is not adequate to take care of every situation likely to arise during their stay.

Occasions of ceremony in the national capital follow certain rules and regulations, ignorance of which often brings humiliation; and indifference to these rules calls down stern criticism upon the offender.

Landed, it is the wise newcomer who acquaints herself with the rules. By so doing she will not only simplify life for everyone, but will also save herself much embarrassment.

Washington is different from European capitals in this respect. On the continent when statesmen are dressed and feted, there is a "protocol" which assigns to every one his or her relative rank, and does so with the official sanction of the government.

No such court of appeals exists in the capital of this country. There are available in the State department certain rules and regulations. The department, however, refuses to be quoted as an authority and supplies no written lists.

It is up to the individual to do the proper thing.

And the proper thing to the uninitiated at times presents a real problem.

Foreign ambassadors and ministers are not, as Lincoln is said to have been: "Willing to follow anyone who wants to precede them." They represent their country or their rulers, whose dignity they are responsible for upholding in their own persons. To use the words of a clever and distinguished ambassador: "Since the Good God made us so that we cannot get through the door at once, there must be precedence."

Each year Washington sees men come here in official positions of great importance. They represent sovereign states, each one proud of its dignity. An affront to them is an affront to those states.

Thus the wives of Washington officials are faced by conditions not duplicated anywhere. And they soon come to know that knowledge of the rank of officials at dinners is necessary, not merely in giving entertainments, but even in attending those given by others.

Paris, April 12 (AP).—The reparations experts of the allied powers failed to reach an agreement concerning figures to be submitted to Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, the German delegate, during this morning's session, and it was necessary to call another meeting for this afternoon.

Every country or section of a country as it grows casts about for more and more resources that can be converted into marketable finished products. The American Southwest has taken the common hedge apple tree otherwise known as the Orange orange, the bow wood or the bois d'arc tree.

A row of these trees compose what farmers call a hedge fence.

In the old days its roots were smoked by boys to whom tobacco was forbidden. Otherwise, the hedge tree, with its manifold fruit of large green balls, was unpopular. Farmers condemned it because, when used as a hedge, it would not hold their cows and hogs. Motorists, cursed it because it shut off their view at cross-roads, the hedge tree appeared to be of little use. A few factories bought it to make wagon spokes and felloes.

A new day, however, is dawning for the hedge apple tree. It is being turned into the boppers of some of the country's large dye factories. This is developing into a real industry in Texas and Oklahoma.

The hedge apple tree is also excellent material for telephone cross-arms and insulator pins. What is left of the tree is utilized in the making of fertilizer. Long ago the Indian made bows of this wood.

Fontaine Gashes Wine

In the town of Marino in the Roman Campagna there is a fountain which occasionally flows with wine. For an hour in the vintage season of each year the thirsty may freely fill their pitchers.

The custom of free wine is an old one. In the market place near by stands a gigantic basket filled with clusters of grapes, its diameter almost as great as that of a small-town gas tank. The basket belongs to the town and whatever of its contents is left is made into wine for the free fountain in the following year. Great crowds gather for the celebration.

Good Qualities of Fruits

Nutrition and Diet says: "The apple leads among the orchard fruits. It carries small amounts of vitamins A, B, and C. It has definite laxative properties, probably owing to the large cellulose content. The young apple contains a large amount of starch, but as it ripens this is rapidly converted into sugar until when fully ripe it contains little or no starch. The acid content decreases as the sugar increases. In the summer its pectin, valuable in the formation of jelly, decreases with the ripening process. The citric fruits are next in importance to the apple, and their culture is being enormously increased. Oranges come first. They offer an excellent source of readily assimilable glucose, and for this reason orange juice is used when there is necessity for quick-assimilable carbohydrate which will throw the least burden on the digestive organs. The orange contains both vitamins A and B."

Men Touch Note

A French artist recently drew a race-track scene for the fashion page of the Women's Home Companion. When the sketch was received, it was noticed that one horse was running around the wrong way. Asked for an explanation, the quick-witted Frenchman replied: "He is a left-handed horse, quite common to France."

Guards O. E. S. Records at Night

The New York Herald Tribune of Thursday said:

A small group of members of the Eastern Star were on guard last night beside the safe in which the papers of the order are kept in the fourth floor of the West Twenty-fourth street. Of the little band it was said several passed the midnight hour in possession of the book, one of them being the grand secretary, Mrs. Anne M. Pond.

The expected visit of the grand matron, Mrs. Amy Hines Crocker, of Schenectady, to the city today was the reason for the extreme vigilance of the grand secretary, who is said to have insisted the efforts of the grand matron to suspend her from office and to have refused to give up the papers and documents entrusted to her as grand secretary. She declares the grand matron has no authority to deprive her of the office to which she was elected last October for the fourteenth time.

In addition to Mrs. Pond, it was rumored that 300 other members of the order had been suspended for alleged insubordination to the grand matron.

The disagreement between the two grand officers has reverberated throughout the state. Mrs. Crocker has been holding a series of local chapter meetings at which her complaints have been explained to the upstate members. On the other hand many upstate women were among those who rallied to the grand secretary's support last night, even volunteering to stand all night watch with her. Former grand officers of the order were said to be among her supporters.

Mrs. Crocker will bring her tour to a close this evening with a meeting of the local chapters in Mecca Temple, on West Fifty-sixth street. No official action can be taken, it is understood, as only the annual meeting which elects grand officers has jurisdiction of the question of their retention of office, but a petition to the October gathering may be formulated.

OIL AND MINERALS MAKE INDIANS RICH

Once Worthless Land Now Yields Fortunes.

Oklahoma City, Okla.—The Osage and Quapaw Indian tribes enjoy untold riches because the white man put them on land he did not want.

When the reservations were marked off, nobody dreamed that some day the hills given to the Osages would be dotted with oil derricks and the prairie set aside for the Quapaws would yield zinc and lead as well as hay.

Today the Osages are the richest people on earth, the 2,229 "head-figures" or estates in the tribe exceeding $100,000 each in value. Unlike the Quapaws, the Osages hold their wealth in common.

The lead and zinc holdings of the Quapaws bring more than $1,500,000 in royalties to 65 restricted members of the tribe, but marriage and inheritance have served to distribute the money generally among the other members.

Once Penniless, Now Rich. Mrs. Anna Beaver Bear Hallam, restricted owner of land on which is located the Anna Beaver mine, owned by Harry Payne Whitney of New York, gets some of the largest royalty payments. For several months her income from the metals piled up at the rate of $50,000 a month. Four years ago she was almost penniless.

The Quapaws were a nomadic tribe when they were placed on their present reservation in 1887. The land was valued at a dime an acre by white men.

Under the treaty by which the tribe was given the reservation, the government, "in view of their wretched and impoverished condition," agreed to move the Quapaws to their new home and to furnish them live stock, farm implements, firearms and other equipment.

Nothing except hay was produced on the tribe's new land. White men loaned it paying the Indians a pittance. The town of Quapaw sprang up and became the greatest hay shipping point in the world for a time. The Indians cared nothing for the hay, the land or much of anything else. They wanted to fish and hunt and be left alone.

Finds Zinc Ore. In 1905 zinc ore was found while a water well was being drilled on the land of Felix Dardene, a Quapaw Indian. The driller knew the metal in the cuttings from his drill denoted a rich strike, but he lacked the business sense to take advantage of the opportunity to win a great fortune.

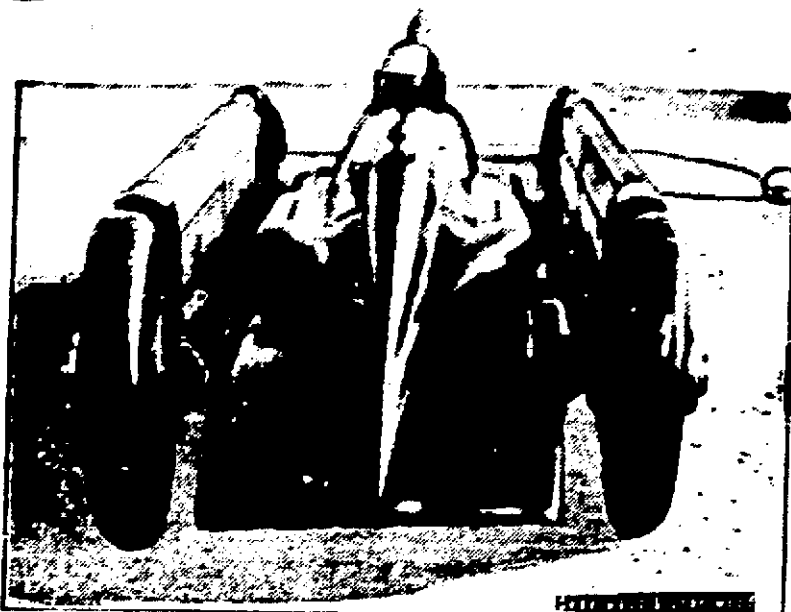

He quit work and drove to Baxter Springs, Kan., where he spread the news. A bystander in one of the crowds the driller drew slipped away and visited Dardene, leaving all his land and much surrounding it. He made a fortune.

It has meant something to be an Osage Indian with a large family born prior to 1907, when the tribal allotment of lands was made. Each Osage was given more than 700 acres that year. A man with a wife and five children had control of 3,500 acres of land and received $21,000 quarterly until the eldest child became of age.

Distinction of having the large Osage family was held by Clement de Kroya. He controlled eleven head-figures, including his own. His wife and those of their nine children. This family has received as much as $40,000 in one quarterly payment.

FIRST NATIONAL AUTOMOBILE SHOW

Held Twenty-Eight Years Ago at Madison Square Garden, New York.

Recalling the first National Automobile show, held 28 years ago at Madison Square Garden, New York, Frank N. Nutt, prominent in engineering circles, and who every year has attended a national show, recites some interesting reminiscences. To quote Mr. Nutt:

"The first show was held November 3 to 10, 1900. Thirty-one different makes of cars were shown. Eight were steam driven, eight electric and fifteen by gasoline motors. Twelve of the fifteen gasoline cars were fitted with single cylinder motors, two with two cylinders and one had three cylinders.

"Out of the thirty-one makes of cars then on display only four are still being made.

"Power plants with one or two exceptions were located inside of the body and under the front or rear seat.

"Steering Wheel Not Favored. The steering wheel made its appearance on one or two cars, one commentator saying editorially, 'A few have adopted that foreign freak, the wheel, which is inconvenient and complicated and cannot compare with the lever.'

"The show, which was sponsored by the Automobile Club of America, was an unqualified success, and the club came in for a lot of praise for the efficient manner in which it handled 'New York's first real automobile show.'

"One publication contrasted the exhibition with the 'farce held in 1889 when a dozen vehicles were gathered together and palmed off as an automobile show, at which vigilant guards prevented visitors from kneeling to look under the carriages—and promptly sent away anyone exhibiting too much intelligent curiosity.'

"In addition to viewing the cars the visitors were treated to test demonstrations in the garden. These tests were designed to show that the cars would run and could be steered and stopped.

Car Specifications. "It is interesting now to recall some of the specifications of cars at the 1900 show. Here are a few: "Tops—mostly none; some canopy. Fenders, or mudguards—metal frame with patent leather sewed over the frame. Windshield—none; used goggles. Steering gear—stick or lever; one or two had wheels. Springs—full elliptic or long semi-elliptic. Lamps—kerosene; carbide with gas and water tank a part of the lamp; electric on electrical. Drive—chain. Signal—mechanical and electric bells. Ignition—make and break; one or two with jump spark. Instruments—no speedometers, ammeters nor gauges."

Short Circuits Cause Failure of a Battery

Internal short circuits cause sudden failure of a storage battery, but not every sudden failure of a battery is the result of a short circuit. How can a motorist tell if short circuiting has been the cause? This is the natural question that immediately comes to mind.

The story is told in the process of recharging the battery. After the cells have been on charge for 12 hours or so the trick is to feel the battery posts to note whether they are warm or cold. If you find one that's warm the indications are that there is a short circuit in the particular cell.

Texas Is Now Spending $700,000 on Old Roads

Determined to maintain the excellent status of its state highways, Texas is now spending $700,000 to average 306 miles of old gravel and macadam roads in 23 of its counties.

Work under this appropriation constituted the initial project of the 1925 highway program, which called for the surfacing of approximately 1,000 miles of gravel and rock roadbed with asphalt. The 306 miles of roadway affected by the appropriation for new surface construction are being given an asphalt surface treatment.

In spite of the fact that Toronto has given more professional hockey players to the game than any other city, the Maple Leaf club has only a pair of recruits on its roster—Primeau and Smith, who learned their hockey in Toronto.

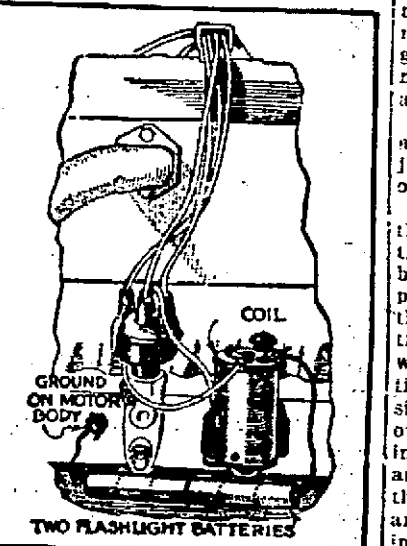

Loose Nuts Will Cause Cylinder Head to Blow

Much trouble is caused by not knowing whether a repairer has completed the job. Mechanics are subject to lapses of memory as well as anyone else, and it sometimes happens that in replacing a cylinder head a repairer will overlook the importance of tightening the cylinder head bolts after the engine has warmed up.

This is necessarily an expensive proposition for the car owner who falls to check up on repairs, for it means that the cylinder head gasket is likely to "blow," causing all varieties of water, oil and compression leaks. It is too late to tighten up the bolts after the gasket has been subjected to strain.

Flashlight Battery Will Start Motor if Stalled

If the battery is so low that the car won't start, even with the hand crank, a couple of flashlight batteries will do the trick. The illustration shows how to connect them. Remove the ignition coil wire leading to the ignition switch, and replace it with a wire from one end of the two flashlight batteries connected in series (you must have at least four cells). Then connect the other end of the two batteries to the metal crank case. Crank the motor, and when it starts, speed it up to send a charge through the storage battery. A few minutes' run will put enough charge in the battery so you can start the car again with the crank.—Popular Science Monthly.

Many Parts Forgotten When Autos Are Oiled

It pays to keep in mind many of the less conspicuous parts of the car which are not properly lubricated because they are overlooked so easily. One of these, almost inevitably forgotten in the lubricating process, is the top of the steering gear post. A few drops of light oil applied at this point every few thousand miles will take away that grinding noise when one tugs at the wheel, as in parking. Clutch and brake pedal shafts need a little lubricant once in a while. Neglect causes excessive wear, resulting in noisy pedal action. Don't neglect the windshield supports and anchors.

AUTOMOBILE ITEMS

Auto insurance on the installment plan has made its appearance in several states.

... The rubber knob on the gear shift lever continually works loose, remove it and place a heavy lock washer inside of it.

... That Wisconsin man who wrecked his car because it wouldn't start was just about one degree madder than the rest of us.

... If the country was as much concerned about the prevention of automobile accidents as about the prevention of flu we wouldn't be so badly run down.

... After a new car has run 400 or 500 miles it is advisable to take down the crankcase and clean it thoroughly in order to remove all the slugs, casting scales, etc., that could not be removed at the factory.

ANDRUS APPEALS FOR MORE CONSIDERATION

To the Editor of The Freeman:

Sir: At various times there have been published different articles concerning the reconstruction of the highway from the Orange county line through Ulster county to the Rondout creek bridge along the west side of the Hudson.

This road is now running through Marlborough, Milton, Highland, Esopus, Ulster Park, Port Ewen, to Kingston. The state has recently completed a survey for the rebuilding of this route which practically eliminates all of these villages with the exception of Port Ewen, with regard for the values of the properties along the old road, and in these small villages will seriously affect all financially and entirely ruining a good many.

The traffic on this road is very heavy, some of the finest people of the U. S. A. are traveling this old historic highway, which has just passed its one hundredth year. Due to this there has been established some very enviable businesses. The farms have at a heavy expense converted their cozy homes into tourist resorts, also serving meals, giving bathing privileges, automobile servicing stations which are helping the happy motorists with their many needs of small repairs to car and tires, cold drinks, luncheons, etc., which is really appreciated by them and has been a source of a better living for the folks all along the way. Increasing the value of the old farms in most all cases over one hundred per cent. All are paying taxes accordingly and gladly for they are making good.

Many of these old farms have been sold at prices that were considered away beyond all reason, still further contracting mortgages to improve houses and grounds yet happily going along paying high interest, likewise taxes, living well, improving their orchards and gardens, all because they have the highway and its grateful touring public.

Now all at once the state comes and it seems without thought or consideration threatens to take it all away, leaving a bewildered and confused people wondering how can it be in justice to man and brother. What will become of their homes, how can they meet their obligations, distress and disstraining every hand?

It is very sorrowing to talk with the good people, discouraged men and many of the women folks wiping a silent tear at the thought of their willing hard labors which had not quite raised the home debts, all going for naught, when a few years more would have brought them an assured old age independence.

They have through request asked and begged for consideration and justice of the men who have control of the highway affairs.

Then again these people were further distressed when an article came through the press stating that the business men of Kingston had appointed a committee to demand that the board of supervisors rush conditions for the completing of the highway as the state had seen fit, admitting that there had been some opposition but that this could be easily overcome. Do not these same business men know that there is a steady and sure trade always coming to them from these same people who are going to be ruined by the changing of this highway. Take for example at Ulster Park, fifteen farm families are sacrificed, Esopus at Esopus and Milton.

These people have always spoken of and thought of our business men of Kingston as sincere friends and feel that there is some mistake in the knowledge these men are acting on, as it is not in conformity with the many helps they have given them times immemorial.

The good judgment of men is the basis on which the prosperity of a state and nation is accomplished. Have the people along the old historic highway used poor judgment in staking their all for a home and happiness there? They appeal to their state and county legislature.

Earth's End Countdown

According to a statement by the director of Harvard Observatory, millions of meteors strike the earth's atmosphere daily, and the annual increase of the earth's mass resulting from the accumulation of this matter is about 36,500 tons. At this rate he points out that it would take millions of years to accumulate a layer an inch thick. On the other hand, there may be slight losses in the earth's mass or in the earth's atmosphere, as it rubs through space, but it is mere speculation to talk of what the end of the earth will be.

Severe Tests Prove

Crickets Hard to Kill

Dr. Frank E. Lutz, curator of insects at the American Museum of Natural History, and Alfred L. Loewen, a physicist, put a cricket through a series of physical experiments that would have killed most creatures, but the little fellow survived the tests and seemed to enjoy for more, the New York World tells us.

An first experience was in a jar from which the air was rapidly exhausted until the pressure was equal to an altitude of ten miles above sea level. At first the insect was quiet, but in a few minutes it began to clean its hind legs. Then the tube to the jar was cut, permitting an instantaneous drop to the pressure of the outside air.

"The cricket," says Doctor Lutz, "merely gave a little twitch as though some one had frightened it a bit."

The insect's next adventure was with compressed air. It was put in a tank analogous to balloons used in tunnel building. The pressure was quickly raised and then as suddenly reduced, a procedure no human being could have survived. But the valiant cricket paid less attention to these adventures than to the previous ones. The following day Gryllus, as science call the cricket, was mounted on a heavy go-round ride in a circusside that whirled at 1200 revolutions a minute for ten minutes. When the machine stopped the cricket shook its self and chirped as if in thanks to the buzzy ride.

Swapping From the Air. All the knowledge and ability of the aviator is called into play when he undertakes to come to earth. He must remember all he has learned, and there are about as many "dos" as "don'ts" for him to follow. These are a thousand things that happen when a machine is about to touch land, and the aviator must be prepared to meet any one of them. It is essential that he should know the exact direction of the wind and make his descent accordingly into it. It is fatal to stall the engine at this stage of the flight. The gentle art of landing is particularly trying to the beginner.

Eight Industrial League Teams to Start on May 6

Monday evening, May 6, at 8 o'clock, the Industrial League will start its season with the first game of the season, a three-game series with the Athletic Field team.

Eight teams will make up the circuit, it was decided at the first meeting of the Industrial League managers held in the Chamber of Commerce rooms, Thursday night, when tentative plans were made for the season. One new combine and a completely new team will play in the league this year.

The new combine is that of the Post Office representatives and players of the Apollo club. Last year the former joined City employees in a combination, but this year the municipal workers will not go into the league. The newcomers to this year's circuit are the Manhattan shirt factory players.

So the eight teams, that will make up this year's schedule, and managers, are as follows:

Post Office-Apollo, "Dutch" Glasser and Harold Johnston.

Hercules, W. D. Lane.

Central Hudson, Harry Riegan.

Manhattan Shirt Co., Ernest Thomas.

Columbia Shirt Co., Frank "Boots" Leslie.

K. & M. Silk Mills, Pete Komasa.

Jacobson's Artistic, W. Wick.

U. & D. Schillings, Frank Noonan.

Charles Warren, local sporting goods dealer, who acted as president of the league for the past four years, was again chosen to head the circuit.

At first Mr. Warren was of the opinion that someone should have the position, but on persuasion of E. Frank Flanagan, vice-president of the league, and together with a unanimous wish expressed by managers present, he accepted the position. In addition to the officers named, John Hartman was re-elected secretary and Pete Jordan umpire.

This year a popular player contest will be conducted, the winner of which will be awarded at the end of the season. The popular player will be chosen through the medium of a score card coupon, which will be handed to an official at each game with the name of some player written on it. The player having the largest number of votes at the end of the season will get the prize. This innovation is expected to create much interest and a will on the part of every player to do his best.

Another Industrial League meeting will be held on Monday evening, April 22, at the Chamber of Commerce. At this time it is expected that plans will be completed for the starting of the season.

Sunday School League Games

The Redeemers, winners of the first match, will clash with the Congregationalists tonight at the Y. M. C. A. in the second of the three-game series to determine the champions of the Senior Sunday School League.

It is expected that as large a gathering as that which saw the Redeemers and Congregationalists in action in the first game will pack the Y. M. C. A. gym tonight. If the Redeemers win tonight they will be the league champions. Should the Congregationalists succeed in taking the game the deciding match will be played at the "Y" on Saturday night.

Chinese Tree in Gotham Gardens Poisons Keeper

New York—A more curious than careful gardener in the New York zoological gardens recently fell victim to a severe case of poisoning from a tiny of the fruit of the Chinese ginkgo tree.

Failure to remove the fleshy covering that surrounds the edible kernel of the plumlike fruit of the ginkgo was responsible for the gardener's mishap. It is a favorite food of the Chinese, who carefully remove the outer coat, which gives warning of its toxic power by a strong, rancid odor.

Rows of the decorative ginkgos, or maidenhair trees, line the drive west of the museum. They were brought here to help popularize them, as they are remarkably free from disease or insects, and withstand city life. In summer they bear wedge-shaped leaves.

Three Students Enjoy College on $30 Month

Fallman, Wash.—You can get an education on $10 a month and still not miss a thing—if you know how.

Three students of Washington State college, do just that. Carl Ellington, varsity three sport athlete; Ralph Carlton, frosh basketball star, and Kenneth Kadow are the three musketeers who bag a cheap education together. They get free room, light and heat for caring for a furnace. Food and incidentals total $30. Carlton and Ellington earn by working in the college gymnasium, while Kadow's job as songs electrician in the college auditorium acts the other third of the expenses.

Hollywood, Calif.—Leonard Stevens, author of the song entitled "I Saw Paris and Go Home," is recovering after being run over by a hit and run motorist.

In Cairo and Alexandria, Egypt, the number of motor vehicles has risen from 19,000 in 1924 to 55,000 in 1928.

R.A.C. Prepare to Scalp Blue Sox

The Roadout A. C. also is whipping itself into shape for the opening of its season with the Blue Sox on Sunday, April 12, at Block Park, and hopes to convince fans that it is much stronger this season than the Sox, who marched into camp the victors of a three-game series with the Roadouts last year.

Manager Artie Golden expects much from his charges in the opening game and is joined by a great number of fans in his estimation of the Roadouts. This team is favored by many seventh ward fans to win from the Sox, but the latter team's following holds that the Blue Sox are capable of upholding the reputation they made last year by downing the Goldenmen.

The Roadout's lineup for Sunday's game will be Joe Coughlin, "Waco" Peters or "Lefty" Doyle on the mound; Dulin, catcher; Krom, first base; Stump, second sack; Phil "Molly" Leonard, short, and Steve Connelly at the hot corner. In the outer garden will be Knight, Spiegel and Crispell or Finley. This combination won 22 games last year out of 45 starts.

The Sox have not announced their lineup but it is likely that Nick Huber, last season's pitching ace, will take up the mound duties Sunday. Tomassie will catch.

As announced several days ago, Mayor Edgar J. Dempsey is scheduled to toss the first ball, which will be received by Alderman Alec Ostrander of the Seventh Ward.

JOE DUNDEE FIGHTS AL MELLO TONIGHT

Boston, April 12 (AP)—Joe Dundee, welterweight champion, was ready today for his return non-title bout tonight with Al Mello, the Lowell fighter who soundly trounced him when they met in this city three months ago. Their bout will be the feature event of the Boston Garden's charity boxing show.

Both camps were brimming with confidence and knockout threats and both fighters would benefit by such a decisive ending. Dundee is badly in need of the added prestige which a knockout victory at this time would afford him, since his title has already been disputed by the National Boxing Association. Mello, on the other hand, has been promised a chance outdoors at Dundee's title if he again outclasses the Baltimore battler.

DEMPSEY SAYS BOXING NEEDS SUPREME HEAD

Chicago, April 12 (AP)—Jack Dempsey, promoter, is advocating a "boxing czar."

"What boxing needs to save it from decline is a supreme head, a man of action and power like Landis in baseball," Dempsey said. "Today there are too many controlling boxing organizations and none is in agreement with the other, it seems. These bodies should get together. There is much to be done and a supreme head, with power enough to make final decisions, could lift the game up to a higher standard."

Champions Going To Europe

New York, April 12 (AP)—Glenna Collett and Helen Wills, respectively National Women's Champions in golf and tennis, plan to sail for Europe next Wednesday aboard the Aquitania. Miss Wills' party will include her mother and Miss Edith Cross, young San Francisco star, who will be the national champion's playing partner on her coming European invasion. Miss Collett will be accompanied by her mother and Miss Beralce Wall of Oshkosh, Wis.

Satisfactory Adjustment

The claim of Mr. and Mrs. John Dawe of 267 Hasbrouck avenue, which arose out of an automobile mishap has been satisfactorily adjusted. The claim was handled through the firm of DeWitt and Brodhead, 276 Fair street.

Becker Wins Swimming Honor

J. Edwin Becker, of 359 Albany avenue, a student at Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute, Troy, N. Y., has been awarded a varsity insignia as a member of the swimming team at that institution. Becker is a senior in the department of civil engineering and has a very good scholastic record.

America's "Rome"

Richmond, Va., was originally built on seven hills and was popularly known as the "American Rome." In 1892, when Charles Dickerson visited the city, it had extended its limit to another hill, and he alluded to it as "delightfully situated on eight hills overlooking the James river."

How Snake Travels

The organs of locomotion of all snakes are the muscles between the ribs. The ribs are drawn closely together first on one side and then on the other, thereby producing alternate bends of the body which result in a forward motion.

HIS LONG CAREER DUE TO SPITTER

Only Thing to Fear Is Overwork, Says Faber.

Convinced that the spitball is responsible for his longevity as a big league pitcher, Red Faber this spring begins his twenty-first year in baseball.

Red believes that the spitball is the cause of all deliveries on the arm. To prove his point he refers to Jack Quinn and Burleigh Grimes as well as himself. All of them are old enough to be the fathers of some of the present big league players.

"The only thing you have to watch about the spitball," Red said, "is not to go on the hill too often. Just take the old regular turn and everything is okay, but try to work out of turn and the arm quits functioning."

Red believes overwork cut short the career of Big Ed Walsh, one of the greatest exponents of the spitball. "Everybody said Walsh's arm quit because the spitball placed too great a burden on it," Faber said. "I believe that what killed Walsh was overwork. One season I tried overwork and was in eight games in nine days. For a time after that my arm seemed gone. Although that's nearly fifteen years ago I haven't tried the same thing since."

Red once experienced a peculiar arm trouble which threatened to cut short his career, but he does not believe the spitball had anything to do with that.

The trouble entered in Red's right elbow, and doctors finally diagnosed it as chipping of the bones. An operation relieved the trouble and Faber came back to pitch more winning baseball even though he then was past what was considered the age limit for pitchers.

He resorted to the spitball in 1911, when he hurt his arm and virtually lost power to throw a curve. He mastered the delivery in two years at Pueblo and Des Moines in the Western league and reported to the White Sox in 1913.

Relying on the spitball as his major delivery, Red improved his arm until he eventually regained his curve ball and for years he has been one of the most feared pitchers in the league.

Only a man or two were lost from the Princeton crews of 1928 and Coach Chuck Logg has good material for this year.

Daniel J. Ferris, Amateur Athletic union official, won more than 200 track trophies and prizes before he hung up his spiked shoes.

K. O. Billy Edwards, a popular boxer of Savannah, Ga., claims that he has never voluntarily taken a step backward in the ring.

Stanford will have one of the strongest college tennis teams in the country this year with Johnny Dugg as its outstanding player.

Emil Hirschfeld, German weight event star, established what is believed to be a new indoor record for the shotput with a heave of 30 feet 9 inches.

Polo is the most ancient of games played with stick and ball. There have been some 12 varieties of the game in its more than 2,000 years of existence.

One of the sports which has succumbed to the whirl of time is flying rings, once a popular pastime of which Robert Stoll was champion from 1865 to 1885.

32 Rounds of Boxing Tonight In Armory Ring

The 32 rounds of boxing scheduled to be staged at the local armory tonight, with the feature attraction an eight stanza affair between Nick Zinna of this city and Soldier Buckley of New York, promises to draw a record crowd to the big drill shed.

Fans have been eager to see Zinna and Buckley do their stuff ever since the latter knocked out Johnny Carpio. Zinna is credited with two wins over the Kingston hard hitter and all are anxious to witness just what he will be able to do against the tough Soldier.

The supporting bouts, including a six rounder between Johnny Blaine of this city and Soldier Miller, which promises to be a hectic battle, no doubt will contain plenty of action from start to finish for the contestants in tonight's fights all have very good reputations.

The full program is as follows:

Eight Rounds.

Nick Zinna of Kingston vs. Soldier Buckley of New York city.

Johnny Huber of New York city vs. T. Anderson of New York.

Six Rounds.

Johnny Blaine, Kingston, vs. Soldier Miller of West Point.

Jimmy Collins of New York city vs. Herman Hill of West Point.

Four Rounds.

Frenchy Duwig of Kingston vs. Dave Solomon of West Point.

Captain E. C. Lawson, athletic officer of the First Battalion, 156th Field Artillery, announced Thursday night that the next card of bouts would be held at the armory on Monday night, April 22. The feature attraction on that date will be a 12 rounder between Irish-Jimmy Doyle, bantamweight champion of the National Guard and the flashy little Tommy Aboba, well known to local fans.

Kid Chocolate Favored to Win

New York, April 12 (AP)—Eligio Sardinias and Angelo Geraci—otherwise Kid Chocolate and Bushy Graham—hope to shed a little light on the much-muddled bantamweight situation tonight. They clash at Jess McMahon's New York Coliseum in a 15-round bout which should see one or the other eliminated from the bantamweight picture.

Indications are that neither will attempt to make the class limit of 113 pounds but there seems little reason to doubt that both could get down to it if necessary.

Chocolate, undefeated in his short career, rules the betting favorite at 7 to 5, but the experts almost to a man, expect the Cuban negro to find Graham the toughest man he has ever met.

Graham, who hails from Utica, N. Y., has been rated at or near the top of the bantamweight heap for more than two years. Some of the edge of his phenomenal speed may have disappeared, but he still is a foeman worthy of any 118-pounder in the business.

Chocolate is much the hard hitter of the two and can box to boot. But it is doubtful if the Cuban will be able to stop Graham. The Utica "spider" has been knocked out only once in his seven-year professional career. Spike Sullivan turned the trick in 1922, Graham's first year in the pro ring.

The bout is the first of a tentative series designed to produce a king for the now vacant bantamweight throne. There has been no generally-recognized champion since early in 1927, when Charlie Phil Rosenberg forfeited his title by coming in over the weight in a championship match with Graham, who was outpointed. Most experts feel that the title chase lies among four men—Chocolate, Graham, Fidel Labarba, former flyweight champion, and Al Brown, the Panama negro.

WITH THE BALL CLUBS

(By The Associated Press.)

Memphis, Tenn.—Belier that Pin Trayner will be able to get into the Pirates-Cub opening game Tuesday was strengthened today. The Cub captain gave his injured hip a thorough tryout in the game yesterday and today he reported a slight stiffness of the muscles was the only difficulty he experienced.

Washington—Despite three defeats by Washington and one tie game, the Giants and their rooters are not losing hope yet. The scores get closer every day and the New Yorkers are playing better ball. Only their failure to hit the pitching of Liska and Brown cost them yesterday's contest. Andy Reese got the only safe hits for the Giants, two of them, but the good fielding of McGraw's men held the Senators to two runs from nine safeties, just enough to win.

Philadelphia—Pruning has started in the ranks of the Phillies and Athletics.

Manager Shotton of the Phillies announced today that he had sent a rookie battery, Bill Derham, left-handed pitcher, and George Sheffert, catcher, to Scranton on option.

Nick Horrell, formerly of Muhlenberg College, has been sent by the Athletics to the Portland, Oregon, club, for seasoning.

Atlanta, Ga.—With only one more game on their exhibition schedule before they return home, the Yankees still are romping through their games apparently without caring whether they win or lose. They beat the Atlanta Crackers yesterday but only because their hits were a little harder and came at the right times. The locals outdid the world's champions 21 to 17, but they could get only 17 runs while the Yanks accumulated 15.

Indianapolis, Ind.—Alphonse Thomas, the Baltimore curve armer, has been picked by Manager Blackburn to start for the White Sox in their season's opener at St. Louis Tuesday.

Chicago—Barnum will have one less alibi for weak hitting at Wrigley Field, home of the Cubs, this year. An old iron picket fence in centerfield which they said interfered with their batting has been torn out and a solid iron wall, painted green, has replaced it, giving the batters an ideal background.

Detroit—Lacking Marty McManus, who was forced to remain at his home in St. Louis because of illness, the Tigers returned here today to make their initial appearance of the season before home fans in the first game of a series with the Toronto club of the International League. McManus is suffering from poisoning, due to a spike wound.

Macon, Ga.—Manager Robinson of the Brooklyn Robins, spent a rainy afternoon yesterday selecting his hurlers for the rest of the spring training season. They are McWeeny, Clark and Dazzy Vance.

Boston—This city's two major league ball teams were given a cold reception when they got back to their home city—meteorologically speaking. There was snow on the ground in the suburbs and cold chills playing around Fenway Park and Braves Field. The boys lost no time in joining the stove league for a day.

Kansas City, Mo.—Although Gabby Hartnett, Cub catcher, insists his salary wage is healed and that he is ready to work, it is doubtful whether Manager Joe McCarthy will be at risk for two weeks more.

Cincinnati—The Cincinnati Red out of town training season ended Indianapolis yesterday when the Reds came home with a 13 to 9 beating.

Birmingham, Ala.—The baseball Cleveland Indians furnished this year was behind today in their second game with the Birmingham Barons, who took the exhibition which went along at a break rate on errors, had plenty of St. Louis—Back home with a position scheduled for today and the series opening tomorrow, Manager Billy Southworth was confident of the chances of the St. Louis Cardinals. He said he was especially pleased with Jim Bottomley's batting and also that of Eddie Delker, who has been the hitting sensation of the training trip.

Tulsa, Okla.—Manager Dan Howley worked a pair of hurlers who played with Tulsa Oilers against their former team yesterday and the St. Louis Browns scored their first shutout of the season, pointing three pitchers for 15 hits and 10 runs, including two homers.

Washington—Gomp has it that Veteran Sam Rice will be back in the Washington outfield in place of West when the season opens. West failed to bang the ball as expected while Rice seems as good as ever.

Wanted Love Gifts Back

Happiness felt by a septuagenarian when he remarried led to an amusing court case at Armagh, Ireland. The old man wanted the return of his goats which he said had been stolen from him, but which he later admitted he had given away in his wedded bliss. The case was dismissed.

Market for Fruits And Vegetables

New York, April 12 (AP)—(State Department of Agriculture and Markets.)—Demand for Big Boston lettuce of new quality, free from tip burn or other defects, exceeded supply today and prices sharply advanced. North Carolina offerings in five-packs, wholesalers as high as $5.50 and as low as $2.50. Iceberg in similar containers brought $3.25.

Last year during April and May North Carolina forwarded almost 100 carloads of lettuce to this market. Asparagus was in moderate receipt and with trading more active the market ruled firmer. Prices averaged from 25-35 cents a dozen higher. California asparagus peddled out at principally $4.35 per dozen bunches. South Carolina consignments realized $3.50-50 and New Jersey $4.85.

Carlot shipments of asparagus during the preceding week were almost double those of the previous week. California started 205 cars to consuming centers, South Carolina 165 and Georgia 30. Receipts of Florida string beans were moderate. Fancy tender offerings were in active demand and yesterday's values were sustained without difficulty. Seven-eighths bushel hampers of green flat varieties sold from $2.45-50, while green round varieties commanded $1.50-6.50. Wax beans brought $2-26.

The season's first spinach from Maryland arrived this morning. Liberal supplies were on hand from Virginia, while offerings from nearby gardens increased. The market was weaker and prices lower. Bushel baskets from Maryland wholesaled at chiefly 85-90 cents. Virginia ranged from 40-90 and nearby from 40-85.

Cucumber receipts from Florida were moderate. Demand was moderate and the market was without any notable change. Fancy pack brought $3.50-4.50, and the choice $2.25-32.

During the week ended April 6, cucumber shipments in carlots from Florida totaled 214, compared with only 15 during the corresponding week last season.

Supplies of California cauliflower were lighter and with buying fairly good prices strengthened slightly. Jobbing sales were reported at $2.50-3 per crate on the best. The season's initial carload of Oregon cauliflower was received today. Most of the wholesale business was at $2.50 a crate.

During March, New York city received 372 carloads of cauliflower from California and one from Arizona.

SENIOR CLASS TO PRESENT "THE ROMANTIC AGE"

"The Romantic Age," to be presented April 26 by the Kingston High School Senior Class, is a play of high calibre. It has been presented in New York city several times, in addition to having been given by amateur performers in several colleges. Critics pronounce it a delightful comedy. A realistic forest scene coupled with the costuming of the characters gives the play a fascinating background. A theme of romance and fancy threads throughout the plot. A quaint subtle humor in the play will undoubtedly charm the audience. Tickets for this play may be obtained from the members of the senior class. It is hoped that the class of '29 will enjoy a sellout comparable to that of their predecessors of last year. The proceeds of this play is devoted to the Maroon, the annual publication of the senior class.

A Runnige Sale.
The T. T. Class of St. James M. E. Sunday school on Saturday, April 13, will hold a runnige sale beginning at 1 p. m. Those wishing to donate articles for the sale can notify Mrs. R. Snyder, 153 Prospect street, or phone 207-R.

The SANDMAN STORY

THE UGLY WART HOG

"I KNOW I'm the ugliest creature living," said the Wart Hog to Billie Browne who had gone to the zoo to see his friend the wart hog. The wart hog's name, as you remember, is Clarence.

"Well," said Billie Browne, "it saves you the trouble of fussing about yourself all the time."

"Now I heard of a little girl and a grown-up lady," Billie Browne continued. "The grown-up lady scolded the little girl for being very vain because she looked in the glass so much."

"But the little girl saw the lady often looking in the glass, too! Yes, the little girl had had these ways handed down to her from her mother. Both were very vain, though it is true both were very good looking."

"They knew there was something to see that was pretty if they looked in the glass, yet their expressions didn't amount to much so vain and conceited they were!

"I'm Aware of My Own Ugliness, and That Is a Good Thing."

"Now you are never bothered that way."

"Never," said the Wart Hog. "It is true. I don't need a mirror. I don't want a mirror. In fact, I dislike a mirror."

"I'm aware of my own ugliness, and that is a good thing. Of course, I do not see how I could help but be aware of it."

"It's plain on the face of it and I mean that as a joke as well as the truth," added the Wart Hog. "I think it is often well to announce when a joke is a joke. Then one is sure to get a polite laugh or a smile at least, and one's own feelings aren't hurt, and the other creature doesn't feel as though he had made a mistake by not knowing whether to laugh or not."

"Yes, it's a good friendly thing to tell another when one makes a joke."

For Meditation
By LEONARD A. BARRETT

THE SIZE OF A TOWN

THE size of a town is not measured by its population, its wealth, nor even its prospective development. Banks may boast of large assets, and manufacturing industries of immense profits, but the size of a town does not depend upon these things. Plenty of work may be obtained and no reason may exist for poverty anywhere, but unless a town measures its importance by values more enduring than these, its place on the map is relatively insignificant.

What makes a town important? Not its bigness, but its ideals. Not the number but the kind of people living there. Ideals determine character and character determines destiny. This is true not only of individuals but of communities. Many towns, both large and small, will be forgotten. The towns that we remember are those in which some person lived whose name shines out upon the pages of history. The world would never have given the little town in old Kentucky, with its log cabin, a second thought, had it not been the birthplace of Abraham Lincoln.

Persons make towns. Towns do not make people. The town in which we live may be small both in population and material wealth, but if we bring into the life of the little community in which we live the spirit of civic pride, enduring idealism and unquestionable integrity, we shall make no small contribution toward righteous citizenship and that is the one outstanding thing our country needs—not size, but ideals.

Dieting Day

An Indianapolis woman who had confided to her husband that she was dieting accompanied him to a country home in Miami county to spend Sunday. The table of Lady Bountiful was laden with chicken dressing and various dishes rich in calories. All were delayed on their circuit around the table at the plate of her who would regain that schoolgirl figure. The husband becoming alarmed, inquired:

"Are you dieting?"

"Yes, I diet on Tuesday," was the complacent reply.

To Make Sure of It
"What is the most delicate yet surest way of ascertaining a woman's age?" asks a correspondent. The only way we can think of is to see her birth certificate.

or make what one thinks is a joke."

"Now I think it is quite nice for the Wart Hog to say it's plain on the face of it," for that is an expression and yet there is much truth when one speaks of its being plain on the face of the Wart Hog.

"Of course this isn't uproarious fancy, but a nice little line deserving of a friendly smile."

"Ah," said the Wart Hog, "that was nice. Well, no one can deny my ugliness if they do doubt (and I wouldn't blame them) whether I've a sense of humor or not. My warts are so plentifully ugly and my horns go this way and that way—though they never go far away from my head, I'll admit."

"My tail is so shapely and its hairs are so few and ridiculous and I have such a queer old expression to my face."

"It is all very true. I am exceedingly, exceedingly, extraordinarily, extremely ugly!"

"No one, it has been said, can feel sad over not being beautiful, for when they see me they are beautiful by comparison."

"Now, Red River-Hog is good looking. I think it is a waste of looks, for no one expects a hog to be a thing of beauty, and Red River Hog is always giving people such shocks by showing that he is good to look upon."

"But for all my ugliness and my absurdities, I'm a traveled hog."

"I do brag about this every once in awhile. But I'm sure you can't blame me. If I'm ugly and willing to admit it at least, I can boast a little about my traveling and I like to do so every so often."

"My home was in East Africa. That was, of course, before I came here."

"On my way here I stopped off with my owner in Venice. Yes, friend, I've been to Venice—a beautifully famous or a famously beautiful place."

"It's more than can be said for some. I know of people in New York who've never been farther than Jersey City in their travels and some not even as far as that."

"And I've heard of people in Chicago who've never been farther than Zion City and some not even as far as that."

"And I've heard of people in Point-au-Pic, Quebec, Canada, who've never been out of their village. So don't turn up your snouts at the Wart Hog."

"Or rather, I should say, don't turn up your noses at the Wart Hog, for he has seen more of the world than many a beautiful creature who has no warts and no ugly tail and no thin, hideous hair, and no ridiculous horns."

"And if I don't speak as well as I might, don't hold that against me, for at least the world and I are not strangers!"

SAWS
By Viola Brothers Shore

FOR THE GOOSE—

MEN don't need encouragement. If they're coming your way it's hard to stop 'em. And if they're slipping the other way, it's even harder.

However, sometimes when a man seems to be standing perfectly still, it's a great temptation to grab the bull by the horns and start some with him.

You could live off a package of boiled spaghetti and nobody'd guess nothin' was wrong as long as you kept your mouth shut and your nails manicured.

FOR THE GANDER—

What a different world it would be if men was only as quick on the trigger as a kindess as an injury.

Your like for some of a woman's traits might grow less with marriage. But never your dislike.

The giant that's holstin' the piano makes less than the little guy that knows how it oughta be done.

The richest man in the world can't wear two shoes on the same foot at the same time.
